Northeast Broiler Fryer Parts Part I

ATLANTA, GA.
January 10, 2001
Report Supplied By USDA

Trucklot buying interest remained light and selective and was generally noted as typical of midweek trading. Offerings of bone-in breasts were well balanced, however, boneless-skinless breasts were readily available. Dark meat items were more than sufficient. Wings continued to see active interest and were no more than adequate to tight, although, sellers were finding some resistance at the higher premiums. Movement into retail and distributive channels was slow. The market tone was steady to fully steady on bone-in breasts, no better than steady on boneless-skinless breasts, about steady on the balance.

Report Supplied By USDA

Compared to three weeks ago: Feeder steers 2.00-4.00 lower; feeder heifers 1.00-3.00 lower. Exception noted on few heavy weight feeders that will finish feeding for the strong April market. Demand moderate for feeders. Stockers and calves under 600 lbs 1.00-3.00 higher with good demand. Quality average. Feeder cattle in medium to mostly fleshy conditions. This seasons wheat pasture scarce due to late fall rains followed by unusually frigid temps leaving farmers no choice but to bunk feed cattle. Stockers and calves in thin to moderate flesh conditions. Weigh-ups average. Slaughter cows 1.00-2.00 lower. Packer demand moderate at best for cows. Packers drawing on their feedlot programs of stockpiled cows from the fall culling period thus less aggressive than number of available cows would suggest. Slaughter bulls 2.00 higher. Total of 370 cows and bulls sold with 50 percent to packers. Receipts this week 12,558; last week no sales; last year 17,414.

Supply consisted of 69 percent yearlings over 600 lbs; 28 percent calves and light yearlings under 600 lbs. 3 percent cows and bulls.

Heifers comprised 36 percent of feeder and calf supply.

The OLD FARMER'S THIS WEEK WITH ALMANAC

ST. FABIAN, JANUARY 20

A GOOD DAY FOR BOYS

According to the old almanacs, January 20 was considered a particularly good day for the birth of boys. The eighth-century Greek poet and philosopher Hesiod, in his instructive "Works and Days," named each day as lucky or unlucky for certain events, including birthing, shipbuilding, and shearing sheep. A boy born on January 20 claims Capricorn as his astrological sign, with its characteristics of resiliency and big-heartedness. Numerology gives him the number 2 (2 plus 0) for imagination. Ruled by the Moon, these boys may be more influenced by their feelings than by their thoughts

If you live to the age of a hundred, you have it made, because very few people die past the age of a hundred.

–George Burns

OPINION

The Place To Be

When you consider the benefits to agriculture, we believe the Pennsylvania Farm Show in Harrisburg this week was the best thing to happen for our beloved industry in many years. The mix of farmers, farm organizations, educational institutions, agribusinesses, and the general public provided a consortium of public relations and ag industry promotion opportunities unmatched at any other event.

Too long, agriculture has prided itself on being independent and needing to talk only to itself. We had a corner on the food supply. Everyone was dependent on us and so we could let the rest of the world go by.

But now the world owns us. If we don't produce what the consumer wants, or if they just think we don't, they will snob us and go to some other country for their food. Worse yet, they will work against us, environmentally and legislatively. Even our own citizens are not dependent on American agriculture. They can eat the imports from foreign breadbaskets around the world.

That's why the attempt to bridge the gap between Pennsylvania agriculture and the representatives of 60 foreign countries at the Farm Show is so important. This festive event forms the best possible backdrop for both foreign visitors and all our local nonfarm citizens to see our ag industry in show clothes. What a wonderful opportunity to bridge the gap between farm and city while selling your products to the farm community!

If you want to promote your part of agriculture to farmers and support your industry to the nonfarm citizens of the world, the Pennsylvania Farm Show is the place to be.

To Look At Fire Extinguishers

The proper care and use of fire extinguishers could prevent serious loss from a fire. However, users who do not understand proper fire extinguisher operation may compound the risk of serious farm fires.

A simple method for remembering the four steps in fire extinguisher use is the word PASS, which stands for:

P - Pull the pin. This unlocks the operating handle.

S - Squeeze the operating handle.

S - Sweep from side to side as you knock down the fire.

Fire extinguishers should be kept in areas where fire hazards pose the greatest threat. This would include in farm shops and near machine refueling stations.

Keeping them current and fully charged is the responsibility of everyone at the work site. Equally as important as having extinguishers readily available is having the proper type of extinguisher for your operation.

The ABC type of extinguisher will control fires involving:

- Class A fires, combustibles such as wood and paper.
- Class B fires, flammable liquids such as gasoline and grease.
- Class C fires, fires involving electrical wiring and machinery.

To Learn From Farm Fatality Numbers

The Pennsylvania summary of farm fatal farm accidents from 1999 shows some dramatic changes.

The total number of fatalities dropped from 45 in 1998 to 30 in 1999. Until this recent dropoff, the fatality numbers have remained rather constant with 46 in 1997 and 44 in 1996.

The biggest factor in this dramatic decline is fatalities from tractor overturns. Seven deaths occurred from overturns in 1999 compared to 20 in 1998 and 14 in 1997.

Deaths involving children rose steeply in 1999. Ten children, age 14 and under, died in accidents in 1999, up sharply from four fatalities in 1999. Accidental deaths involving machinery declined from 9 in 1998 to 6 in 1999. Fatalities involving animals stayed roughly constant with three in 1999 and two in 1998.

Deaths from nontractor and machinery stayed the same at six for 1999 and 1998.

The summer months were the most deadly on Pennsylvania farms in 1999, with five fatalities occurring each month in May, June, and July.

Let these numbers remind us that farming may be a deadly job, especially for children and older adults. Take every safety step possible to eliminate accidents!

To Look At Conservation Success

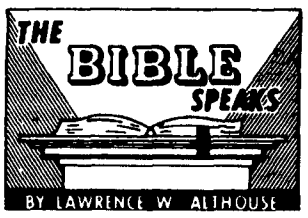
USDA Agricultural Research Service reports good farming practices are proving to be successful in reducing soil sedimentation at three lakes located in the Mississippi Delta region.

About 7,320 acres of farmland surround these lakes. A project was set up to evaluate how changing farm practices could help improve the water quality of the lakes. In this, the sixth year of the project, scientists are finding that algal populations have shifted from those that impair water quality to those that are not harmful.

This shift is occurring as a result of conservation practices such as planting winter cover crops, reducing tillage, and planting vegetative filter strips. These practices minimize soil movement and restrict herbicide runoff into the lake.

These same practices will also help Pennsylvania farmers reduce nonpoint pollution into streams and lakes. By taking a proactive stance and voluntarily implementing conservation practices, farmers are helping to reduce the need for government regulations.

Feather Prof's Footnote:* *"Coming together is a beginning, keeping together is progress, and working together is success."



CAN YOU AFFORD IT?

Background Scripture:
Luke 9:18-25, 57-62, 14:25-33.
Devotional Reading:
Matthew 10:34-39.

WARNING: This scripture passage may be destructive to your peace of mind!

It's only fair for me to warn you. I wish I were exaggerating, but I'm not. If the background scriptures listed above do not shake you up, you are simply not paying attention to them.

These sayings of Jesus are not the "velvet glove" approach, but bare knuckles. I say this because what many of us think it means to be a Christian is not at all what Jesus is saying in the 9th and 14th chapters of Luke.

"Who do people say that I am?" Jesus asks his disciples and they answer, "John the Baptist . . . Elijah . . . one of the old prophets." Peter is the last to answer: "The Christ of God" (9:18-20).

Notice that Jesus neither confirms or denies Peter's answer. Instead, he goes on to say, "The Son of man must suffer many things; and be rejected by the elders and chief priests and scribes, and be killed . . ." Perhaps Peter may have thought that Jesus was ignoring his answer, but I believe Jesus is saying, "Yes, Peter, but the Christ of God is not the Christ that people are expecting."

Instead of a triumphant victor over the Romans, the true "anointed" of God is a one who gives himself to be broken for others. His role is radically different from what most people expect.

'Follow Me!'

So, Jesus also transforms the understanding of what it means to be his follower: "If any man would come after me, let him deny himself and take up his cross and follow me" (9:23). There are to be no membership cards, no secret handshakes, no badges — only a willingness to bear a cross.

Every Sunday at our church people wishing to join the church are invited to come forward for that purpose. Bearing a cross is not one of the questions asked and I cannot help but wonder how many would come forward if it were.

Jesus challenges potential disciples to count the cost of following him. In 9:57-62 he lays down standards which are as radically different from common expectations as are his understanding of his own Messianic role. Following Jesus cannot be one of several loyalties: it must be the very highest loyalty, higher even than any loyalties to the family. (Incidentally, I do not think Jesus is refusing to let a potential disciple bury his father or forbidding another to say goodbye to his family. I believe he is simply using these normal familial obligations to emphasize that following him must be an even higher responsibility.)

To plow a straight furrow requires the farmer's full attention. So it is with the person who chooses to follow Jesus Christ.

On 'Loving Less'

In Luke 14:25-33, there is another possible misunderstanding when Jesus says, "If any one comes to me and does not hate his own father and mother and wife and children and brothers and sisters, yes, and even his own life, he cannot be my disciple."

Does Jesus really ask his followers to "hate" the members of his own family? The English word "hate" here, so say scholars, comes from an Aramaic (the language Jesus spoke) expression meaning "to love less." As much as we love our families, we must love Christ more.

So what Jesus is counseling here is that those who would be his followers should first count the cost and ascertain if they are willing to pay the price. Jesus is not asking for a pat on the back, a signature on a petition, or a vote of confidence. To follow Jesus means a radical commitment that supersedes every other commitment. Our family, our job, our ideology, our nation and our politics must all be subjugated to our commitment to Christ. Ask yourself — as I am asking myself — does Jesus come first in all areas of my life? Do I really love these less than him?

"Whoever does not bear his own cross and come after me, cannot be my disciple" (14:27). Jesus came into this world to bear its crosses and we who would follow him must be willing to share in the bearing of crosses. Becoming a member of a church is one thing that we can add to our lives with a minimum of effort and dislocation. Following Jesus and bearing crosses, however, asks something almost infinitely more than that.

USDA Begins New Pricing Program for 200

* New class price formulas in place

* Protein prices to be lower

* Price support program extended

* December class prices announced

Welcome to a new year! And what an interesting year it will be! USDA began by introducing some significant changes in how milk prices will be computed under an "interim final rule." This interim final rule, recently approved by producers, was the result of the Class III/IV hearing last spring. USDA announced these changes in the Federal register and is now asking for comments through February 8, 2001. I will release a more detailed report within a few weeks on this subject.

In the meantime, I completed a brief analysis of the new pricing formulas for component and class prices. I started with a weekly forecast of commodity prices for 2001. Then I forecasted monthly milk prices for 2001 under the pricing system used last year I then compared these results to monthly class price forecasts under the new formulas recently introduced by USDA

I developed a spreadsheet to compute the impact of these price changes This spreadsheet can be downloaded from the web at: http.//www.aers.psu.edu/dairyoutlook/FedOrderData/MilkPriceModel.htm

So what did I find? Well, I expect the Class I, II, and IV prices will be slightly higher in 2001 because of these changes Most of these changes are very modest, just a few pennies However, the Class III price did change a lot. The Class III protein price is expected to be significantly lower, and the Class III butterfat price higher. It is possible these two changes will cancel each other out. However, my model suggests Class III prices in 2001at 3.5 percent butterfat will drop 15 cents per pound. USDA is estimating a much more modest change.

The bottom line is milk prices won't change a whole lot under the new system. That's because most farmers milk checks are an average of all four class prices. The exception, however, is for producers that are in heavy Class III markets. Then, depending on your fat content, you could see a noticeable drop in your mailbox milk prices.

USDA also announced this week that the milk price support program will remain unchanged for now, but will be reconsidered as the 2001 calendar year begins The support price for milk will remain at $9.90 per cwt at 3.67 percent milk fat I interpret this message to mean the price support program will remain intact for this year, but we (USDA) have the right to tinker with it at any time The fact is there will be a new administration and a new secretary of Agriculture. The Secretary of Agriculture may want to have the flexibility to"re-tilt" the butter/powder support price level.

If that happens, look for powder prices to decline.USDA also announced the December 2000 class prices today. These prices were computed under the old system. Producers will see these prices on their milk check this month. The Class II price is $13.97 per cwt at 3.5 percent milkfat, up $0.29 from last month. Class III is $9.37 per cwt, up $0.80 from last month. And, the Class IV price is $13.27 per cwt, up $0 27 per cwt. The NASS survey product price averages are: butter $1.4698, nonfat dry milk is $1.0158, cheese is $1.0898, and dry whey is $0.2172, all in dollars per pound. The Class II butterfat price is $1.6604 per pound and the Class III/IV butterfat price is $1.6534.

Struck-level capacities of 205, 305 and 380 cubic feet. Optional side extensions provide struck-level capacities of 232, 343 and 428 cubic feet.
For really tough hay, add knives made from 1/4-inch Quadra-Shark™ steel. The through-hardened knives feature scalloped cutting edges for reduced torque.
Quadra Shark™ is a trademark of Patz Sales, Inc
Choose stationary, trailer mounted or truck-mounted models.
▲ New tub design plus full-length breaker bar improves mixing with less power so you can feed more hay. A 3/8-inch bottom pan adds extra service life. Welds are strong and tolerances precise for stronger side walls. You get more sturdiness and durability in a new Model 4000 Mixer. New design of transition area in lower auger improves feed flow and reduces torque.
▲ New design of discharge door frame allows a more-complete mix of ration. Choose from belt or auger discharges. Choose various discharge lengths. Increase operator convenience and reduce feeding time with optional hydraulic height control of discharge.
▲ Improved drive train provides reliable performance. A shear bolt helps protect the planetary and lower-auger roller chain and sprockets.

Attention PA Tobacco Farmers

You will need to consider the $1.50 per lb. contract on nicotene-reduced tobacco offered by Vector Tobacco. You are dealing with a company that is sound and will honor their contract. Also remember they are raising tobacco prices grown in PA. Why would anybody farm tobacco for less than $1.50/lb. in PA? This is the best deal for tobacco farmers offered in PA. Limited time to sign contract. Subject to FDA approval.

Sincerely,
Paul Smucker

Pennsylvania Farm Show Captures International Flavor

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Editor

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) - In what officials called the largest international event in Pennsylvania, the International Celebration 2001 Pennsylvania Farm Show dinner attracted representatives from 60 foreign countries and more than 1,000 total attendees. Gov. Tom Ridge was the featured speaker and spoke to the foreign visitors as friends and trade partners. "Our interest is economic and trade, of course," Ridge said. "But we want to build relationships and friendships. If we can help you to make your country better, we want to do that."

Gov. Ridge announced that he was called to go to Texas the next day to consult with president elect George W. Bush, and would not be able to open the farm show in the large arena. He said Lt. Gov. Mark Schweiker would take his place, which he did.

In addition to the opportunity to host foreign trade visitors, the dinner serves to highlight several significant awards that include the top agribusiness awards, the farm-city award winners, and the Governor's Gold Cup award for the best of show wine entries.

In the Agribusiness awards, Wengers of Myerstown, Zeigler Brothers, Inc., and Weiss Markets were honored.

These awards were established to recognize agribusinesses that contribute to Pennsylvania's number one industry. They are presented to agriculture, food, and wood companies that make a special contribution toward the development and expansion of Pennsylvania agriculture, as well as a positive commitment in their local community.

The winner in Category One (under $15 million annual sales) is Wengers of Myerstown. This family-owned and operated agribusiness has served many farmers as a supplier of used farm equipment and new, used, and reconditioned farm tractor parts for over 53 years. Originally founded by Carl Wenger, Wengers of Myerstown has grown from a small project supplementing a dairy farm to a corporation that is poised to enter the new millennium offering parts and equipment online for the first time.

Zeigler Brothers, Inc. is the winner in Category Two ($15 to $50 million annual sales). Located in Gardners, Zeigler Brothers has built a strong customer base by supplying quality aquaculture, zoo, pet, and laboratory feeds for the commercial, research, and retail markets. After beginning by manufacturing farm feed, founding brothers Ty and LeRoy Zeigler decided to switch the focus to aquatic and speciality fish and animal feeds in the 1960s. The business has grown in reputation and size and is now recognized as a world-class leader.

The winner for Category Three (annual sales exceeding $50 million) is Weis Markets, Inc. Weis Markets began in 1912 when brothers Harry and Sigmund Weis opened a small neighborhood grocery store in Sunbury. From these humble beginnings, Weis Markets has grown to 165 stores operating in six states, employing 20,000 people annually. Weis Markets is an active participant in Pennsylvania Produce...Simply Delicious program and has a corporate policy to purchase Pennsylvania Produce.

Secretary Hayes extended his congratulations to each of the winners saying, "Teamwork and continuous efforts to be the best in their industry are vital ingredients for a company to receive the Agribusiness Achievement Award. I am very proud of these three companies for supporting Pennsylvania Agriculture and the important economic contributions they make to the Commonwealth every day. Dedicated companies such as these are the reason agriculture continues the proud tradition of being the number one industry in Pennsylvania."

In the Farm-City award winners were named as follows: the Lancaster Chamber of Commerce and Industry agriculture committee; Franklin County Farm-City Council, and Jefferson County Farm-City Council.

The Franklin County Farm City program was represented by Eugene Wingert, left, and Dalton Paul. Secretary of Agriculture Sam Hayes was presenter.

"I would like to recognize the hard work of not only the Farm-City Councils, but all of the councils throughout the state. It is through the spirit of volunteerism in these councils that helps to bring the message of agriculture to our suburban and urban neighbors. There is an increasing gap between our rural and urban neighbors. Through the work of the Farm-City program, we are able to bridge this gap and create a better quality of life for all citizens both in the town and township," said Ag Secretary Sam Hayes.

The Lancaster Chamber of Commerce and Industry Agriculture Committee hosted eight events in 2000 to promote Agriculture, contacting over 9,000 people. The Agriculture Committee's activities ranged from the more traditional events of Farm-City Days, Dairy Days, and Farm Field Days to the Township Ag-Growth Workshop, working with Lancaster County's township officials on the needs of the Agriculture community. For the first time, the Agriculture Committee held

'Brighter Future' FFA Campaign Shines Light

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — "It is out of some of the most darkest moments that bright things come to us," said Kerry Richards, Penn State senior extension associate.

Secretary of the Pennsylvania FFA Foundation, Richards recalls this time last year as a time of strife and darkness.

It was four days after the awarding of the 2000 FFA Keystone Degrees, a Friday night, when Don Evans, associate professor of the Penn State Department of Ag and Extension Education, affectionately called by some as "Mr. Penn State," died unexpectedly.

This was after Evans announced a bold new foundation plan to raise $1 million to see the foundation well into the next century.

A day later, more bad news.

Courtni Meiser, Thompsontown, a senior at Greenwood and president of the school's FFA who had just received her Keystone Degree, died in a car accident coming home from work.

Courtni was the daughter of Melinda and Harry Meiser. Courtni completed baking projects as part of her supervised experience projects and sold her bakery items at the foundation's golf tournament fund-raising event in the summer.

Two days, two great losses. For Richards, it was overwhelming.

"It was so hard," she said after this year's Keystone Degree recipients were honored Monday evening at Farm Show. "It was the hardest year. Both were such great people and both had short lives and contributed so much."

In Meiser's name, a scholarship through the FFA foundation was established. And this year, the FFA "beanie bear" was named "Evans" to honor Don's establishment of the "A Brighter Future" Campaign For Pennsylvania FFA.

That five-year campaign is 30 percent complete, Richards announced at the FFA Mid-Winter Convention. The $1 million fundraising campaign will help meet the Foundation's mission of financially supporting the activities of Pennsylvania FFA members. The campaign was launched at last year's Mid-Winter Convention, just four days before Evans' sudden and unexpected passing.

Seven groups committed $25,000 each to the state FFA foundation. They include Hoss's Steak and Sea House, Hatfield Quality Meats, PennAg Poultry Council, Wengers of Myerstown, and Pennsylvania Pork Producers.

Monday evening, two more contributed additional funds to the drive, including New Oxford FFA, which contributed $25,000, and Quality Farm and Country Stores, Muskegon, Mich., represented by Jackie Reese, Shamokin Dam, who contributed $30,000.

The FFA foundation, said Richards, honors the "Courtni Meisers of this world and the Dr. Evans, who start things we now have to finish."

More than 200 FFA members from around the state received the highest honor the state FFA can bestow, the Keystone Degree, during ceremonies at the 72nd Mid-Winter Convention, conducted Monday evening in the Farm Show Complex's Large Arena.

FFA leadership honors were presented to Anna and Cliff Day, left. Phillip E. and LeeAnn Coleman received an honorary Keystone Degree.

The convention also presented honorary Keystone degrees and included a lineup of noted speakers.

Sam Hayes Jr., state secretary of agriculture, told the FFA members to "work hard, prepare yourself — take care of yourself first," he said. But he implored them to "reserve a bit of time for society, and be good citizens."

Hayes told FFA officers and members that it is important to develop professionally and personally. "You are going to be the 21st century," he said.

There are more than 8,000 members of FFA in Pennsylvania within 149 chapters.

Receiving an honorary service award was Cliff and Anna Day. Cliff, an ag educator at Grassland FFA (Garden Spot High School) in New Holland for 30 years, is also Grassland FFA adviser. The Days were honored for their commitment to state activities, including Activities Week, and for many contributions to state FFA.

Doyle Paul, adviser with Brothersvalley FFA at Berlin Brothersvalley High School in Berlin, was honored with a National Association of Ag Educator Award. Paul has been a teacher in the Somerset Area School District for 37 years.

Star Farmer Awards were announced. They are:

- Horticulture. Nicole Brown, 18, daughter of Earl and Kathleen Brown, Coudersport. The Spud Growers FFA president plans on an agriculture science career.
- Specialty Agriculture. Jeremy Weber, 18, son of Glenn and Lucy Weber, Bowmansville and Grassland FFA chapter member. He will also be traveling to the Big E Expo as the National Agribusiness Star.

• Ag Sales, Service, and Mechanics. Chet Brubaker, 18, son of Ronald and Joy Brubaker, Lebanon. The Cedar Crest FFA president plans to graduate from college and wants to pursue a career in agronomy or turfgrass.

• Production State Star. Susan Richardson, 18, daughter of Charles and Ruth Richardson, Fawn Grove. The Kennard-Dale FFA member would like to manager a dairy herd. She will also be traveling to the Big E as Star Farmer.

Other awards were presented. They include:

• Honorary Keystone Degrees. They were presented to outstanding parents who have devoted their time to helping three of their children in achieving the Keystone Degree. They are Charles and Norma Cornell, Genesee, Headwaters FFA; Rodger and Jeanette Barker, Ulysses, Headwaters FFA; William Sr. and Bonnie Keeney, LeRaysville, Northeast Bradford FFA; Earl and Kathleen Brown, Coudersport, Spud Growers FFA; Kenneth and Diana Bartlebaugh, Tipton, Bellwood Antis FFA; Phillip E. and LeeAnn Coleman, Berlin, Brothersvalley FFA; Charles J. and Catherine Vorisek, Linesville, Linesville FFA; Joyce Abel, Creekside, Marion Center FFA; and Richard H. and E. Ellen Stahl, Somerset, Somerset FFA.

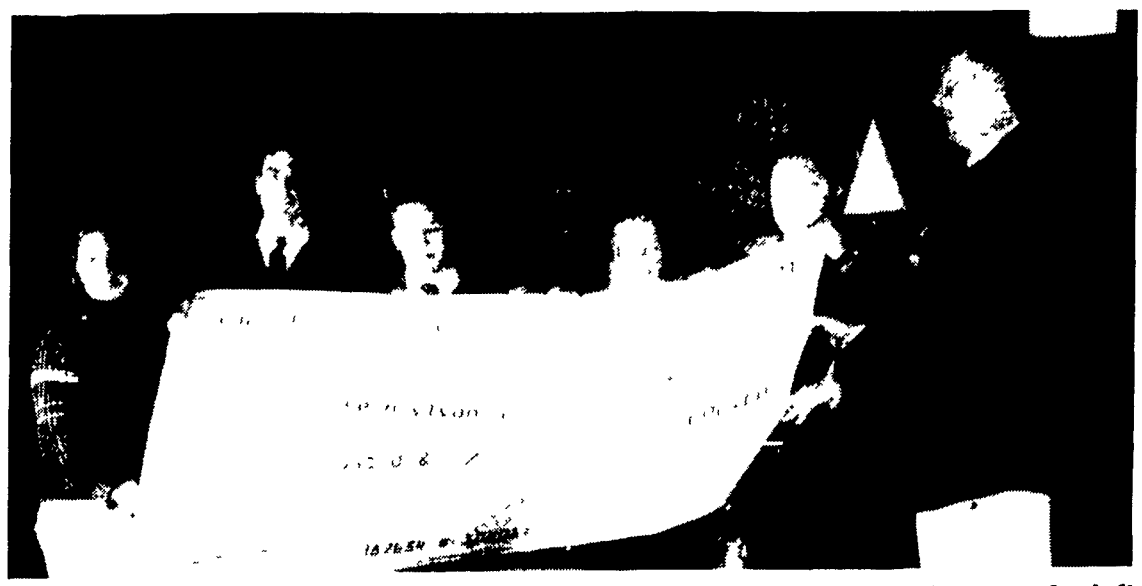
Doyle Paul was honored at the FFA Mid-Winter Convention.

• Special Parent Awards were presented to parents who have already received the Honorary Keystone Degree but who are still devoting their time to help children earn the Keystone. They are Daniel R. and Iona R. Corle, Osterburg, Chestnut Ridge FFA and George E. Sr. and Linda H. Webb, Tyrone, Tyrone Area FFA.

• Superior Chapter awards were presented to Bellwood Antis, Big Springs, Cedar Crest, Central Columbia, Cowanesque Valley, Danville, Grassland, Mifflinburg, and Redbank Valley.

• The following were recommended for the state award and the national award: West Snyder, Twin Valley, James Buchanan/Conococheague, Middleburg, Manheim, Cumberland Valley, Manor, Coudersport/Spud Growers, Cloister, Dover, Greenwood, Brothersvalley, Selinsgrove, and Hans Herr.

New Oxford FFA members presented $25,000 toward the state FFA "A Brighter Future" campaign Monday evening.



Jackie Reese, store manager of Shamokin Dam's Quality Farm and Country, far left, presented a $30,000 donation to state officers for the Brighter Future FFA Campaign Monday evening at the state FFA Mid-Winter Convention.

an "Agriculture Attache Tour," to help build international trade relations with Lancaster County's Agribusiness Community. The Lancaster County Chamber of Commerce Agriculture Committee also has developed a Lancaster Farming Facts handout to help promote Lancaster County Agriculture.

The Franklin County Farm-City Council contacted thousands of people through their agriculture promotion efforts. Fourteen activities were sponsored by the Farm-City Council, ranging from hosting a Business Expo featuring all aspects of industry in Franklin County and "Agricultural Weekend" at a local mall, to poster contests and farm tours. Through Franklin County's Farm-City Week Speaker's Bureau, the public was contacted through speakers at meetings and on radio and television programs.

In Jefferson County, thousands of people were contacted through their five events held in 2000. Jefferson County Farm-City Council worked to bring agriculture to the residents of Jefferson County through the hosting of "Industry Tours" for high school students, organizing the 10th Annual Farm-City Day, participating in the Jefferson County Fair, and participating in Farm-City Week activities.

Cherry Valley Vineyard, Saylorsburg in Monroe County was honored for the best wine entry. Their Raspberry Spumante won the Governor's Cup and a gold medal for the best sparkling Wine. The vineyard also won two silver medals and a bronze.

Cherry Valley was started in 1980 and has been making fruit wines for the past 14 years from 100% whole Pennsylvania fruit, with no preservatives or additives. The flavor of the wine is from the fruit itself. "Pennsylvania grows the best fruit for wine making," said Mary Sorrenti. "I have tried fruits from other locations, but Pennsylvania has the deepest colored and most fragrant fruit."

The next day in his opening remarks at the Farm Show, Lt. Gov. Schweiker, said the six-day farm show showed the future of our $44 billion agriculture that includes 800,000 employees. "I'm privileged to be in your company," he said.

The Pennsylvania Mounted Police performed at the opening ceremonies, and the Pennsylvania High School Championship Rodeo followed.

The Jefferson County Farm City program was represented by Sen. Donald White and Susan Alexander. Secretary of Agriculture Sam Hayes, presenter.

Everett Newswanger, editor of Lancaster Farming, left, receives the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture commemorative "Products for the Planet" plate at the Pennsylvania Farm Show supreme champion dairy cow event. Making the presentation for long-time work to support and promote the entire industry of agriculture is Samuel Hayes Jr., state ag secretary with Dennis Grumbine, Pennsylvania Farm Show director looking on.

Tobacco Auction: No Sale This Week

QUARRYVILLE (Lancaster Co.) — Tobacco auction season began late last week, opening with 25,958 pounds sold with an average of 77 cents per pound.

"That's up from last year, but it's still not good," said Dennis Hess, auction manager.

After the beginning of the auction, conducted at the Solanco Fairgrounds, prices actually rose, peaking at $1.10 per pound.

Some buyers have been paying about $1.25 per pound privately in recent weeks, noted the auction manager.

The auction was set to conduct an auction this week, to no avail. Hess noted the auction is in the process of trying to generate some more buyer interest.

At the start of the sale last week, Hess noted there were 75,000 pounds on the floor, and about a third of it was sold. There were two buyers.

The auction plans a sale for Tuesday or Thursday next week and needs tobacco. Contact Hess at (717) 786-4389 to set up delivery time.

Whether tobacco growers continue to bring their tobacco to auction in the future will depend on movement toward growing tobacco for private sale. Last week it was reported that Vector Tobacco would guarantee $1.50 per pound if growers planted the company's own proprietary, nicotine-reduced leaf.

Vector wants to get as much as eight million pounds, or 4,000 tons, of tobacco from Lancaster County. One acre of tobacco can typically produce about one ton of crop.

Vector Tobacco is a subsidiary of Vector Group Ltd., Durham, N.C., which owns Liggett Group Inc., an established cigarette manufacturer, according to news sources.

No Show Like The Farm Show For Junior Beef Exhibitors

Jack Clark, 11, Fulton County, topped the market steer classes with "Red Dog" to be named supreme champion on Wednesday.

Aaron Sisler, 18, Greene County, and his Crossbred steer won reserve champion placing of the junior market steer show. He is joined by Secretary of Agriculture Samuel Hayes.

After a full day of deliberating, sifting, evaluating and eliminating, only one steer stands at the top.

Wednesday was Jack Clark's day as his steer, "Red Dog," weighing 1,330 pounds, topped the light heavyweight Crossbred class before moving on to be named supreme champion of the junior steer show. This is Clark's first year at the Farm Show.

Aaron Sisler, 18, from Greene County, is also fairly new to the show ring, as this is his second year to exhibit at the Farm Show. His 1,280-pound steer topped the middleweight division before judge Claeys selected the steer as reserve champion.

The formula for getting ready for the Farm Show, said, Sisler, is simply to "work as hard as possible."

Clark, 11, from Houstontown, Fulton County, is the second of four children. His family raises 200 head of beef cattle and crops on a 1300 acre farm.

Matt Claeys, West Lafayette, Indiana, from the department of animal science at Purdue, judged the event. Claeys recognized Clark's steer as "tremendous in the amount of dimension over the loin."

Hoping to farm in the future, Clark plans to put the money from the sale "in the bank and let it draw interest," for now. Along with Red Dog, Clark raises several other animals for county fairs. He plans to return to the Farm Show next year.

Judge Claeys was pleased with the breed representatives in the ring and commended "each one on the muscle shape. If you would analyze the animals here they show readiness and beefiness through the top and back and through the quarter."

Also during the show Carl Logan, Irwin, Westmoreland County, received the John "J" Ira Coble Award for his 32 years of service as a 4-H leader. Coble's granddaughter, Major Elizabeth Coble Popowski, who is stationed at the Pentagon, presented the award.

Also in the junior market steer show Brett Bishard, York County, won champion Angus with Jessica Schmidt, Lancaster

Cole Family Take Supreme Champion Draft Horse

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Cole Family is known nationwide for their powerful yet elegant Percherons.

Pennwoods Percherons, owned by the Cole Family, is located on about 150 acres in Centre Hall.

On their farm they breed, sell, and train high-quality Percheron horses. They have three stallions standing for stud on their farm that are known nationwide for their superior bloodlines.

In addition to horses, they own Pennwoods Equine Products, which sells horse minerals and other equine products.

After about a 10-year absence from showing at the Farm Show, the Coles returned to continue their tradition of presenting superior bred animals to the interested public. A large crowd watched as First Choice Royal Contessa won overall draft horse champion Sunday morning.

The public continued to follow the Pennwoods Percherons throughout the day as they took reserve in men's cart and took first in the four-horse hitch, team hitch, one hitched horse, division 1 junior youth to drive and junior youth showmanship. Chad Cole was the driver in the adult divisions and Dean Woodberry showed the horses at halter. Chelsea Cole was the driver and handler in the youth events.

Rovenolt's Stables, also a team of superior Percherons, has carried the lieutenant governor this year and the governor the last several years.

Pennsylvania Junior Hereford Association Unveils Trophy Case

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Junior members from the Pennsylvania Hereford Association unveiled the new trophy display case in the Main Corridor of the Farm Show Complex on Jan. 7.

This case was constructed to display the several awards won by the Junior Hereford Association members at the national level.

The Junior Exhibitors from Pennsylvania set an unprecedented record by winning six National Sweepstakes awards, with five consecutive wins from 1994-1998. The Sweepstakes Award is presented to the top state team at the annual Hereford Junior National Expo.

Each competing team participates in exhibiting and judging of Hereford cattle, answering industry related questions in a beef quiz bowl, and other industry related contests. All contests have three age divisions.

Function, Femininity At Junior Breeding Show

MICHELLE RANCK
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Exhibitors from all over Pennsylvania brought their polished heifers to the Farm Show ring on Wednesday to compete in the junior breeding show.

Matthew Claeys, West Lafayette, Indiana, from the department of animal science at Purdue, judged the event.

Judge Claeys picked the winning Angus heifer for its volume, function, and sound structure. Sarah Grim, East Berlin, York County, exhibited the champion Angus. Reserve champion was shown by Jamie Hower, Bethlehem, Northampton County.

Although the quantity did not arrive in the Charolais show, the quality certainly did, said Claeys. Katie Myers' stout heifer took home grand champion placing. Myers is from Dallastown, York County. Joseph Young, McVeytown, Mifflin County, won reserve champion.

In the Hereford show Morgan Firestine's grand champion heifer's had the feminine design and "put the most good things together," said Claeys. The heifer exhibited completeness, the right body condition score, good length to her hip, and muscle shape. Firestine's sister, Margeaux Firestine, exhibited the reserve grand champion Hereford heifer. The exhibitors are from Womelsdorf, Berks County.

Champion Limousin was exhibited by Brandon Callihan, Schellsburg, Bedford County. Jessica Mearkle, Everett, Bedford County, showed the reserve champion Limousin.

In the Maine-Anjou classes, exhibitors brought cattle with "plenty of thickness, and attribute of the breed, a good-size foot and sound skeleton," said Claeys. The champion was "stout, strong, and fills up her tracks when she's set in motion." The heifer was exhibited by Adam Mattocks of Meadville, Crawford County. Robin McCabe, Rochester, Beaver County, showed the reserve champion Maine-Anjou.

Although the numbers were also small in the Shorthorn classes, the quality was not compromised, said Claeys. Dakon Moore's heifer had plenty of volume yet a functional skeleton in a feminine package, putting the heifer at the top of the class. Moore is from Hookstown, Beaver County. Reserve champion Shorthorn winner was Kyle Fleener, Robesonia, Lebanon County.

Claeys was "really pleased with the quality of the Simmental show. I did the open show last year, and there has been tremendous strides made in soundness and functionability. The breed has come a long way in terms of fitting into the commercial industry."

Justin Mankey's heifer, exhibiting ideal structure, volume, and femininity, won grand champion Simmental placing. Mankey, from Amity, Washington County, also owned the reserve champion Simmental.

In the bred-and-owned classes, Claeys emphasized the long-term work that goes into an animal in that category. "These are the exhibitors who are putting together quality cattle, who are making breeding decisions."

During the breeding and market steer shows showmanship judge Willard Lemaster, from the University of Maryland, selected young people to come back into the ring to compete in the showmanship classes. Lemaster is a state 4-H animal science specialist.

SCHNUPP'S Flame KISSED

ROASTING IS SUPERIOR TO OTHER METHODS OF HEAT PROCESSED GRAIN

~ IT'S ECONOMICAL - The cost to operate a flame roaster is lower than other types of processing equipment This makes roasting grain a more efficient method

~ IT PURIFIES - Only a flame roaster can effectively remove molds and reduce toxins to tolerant levels. As the individual grain rotates through the open flame, the mold dust around it is destroyed

~ IT'S UNIFORM - Having the grain pass through the open flame and properly steeped, gives it a uniform treatment

~ IT'S PROFITABLE - Custom roasting on your farm
*Gives you the ability to feed your own grain, not someone elses
* Eliminates trucking expenses
* No mill charges shrinkage, storage and handling
* When grain needs to be purchased, you can have it roasted on your farm and know how it is processed

Jersey Cow Is Farm Show Supreme Champion

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Editor

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) - For co-owners Jeff and Mischele Reasner, Newbury, Franklin County and Harry Bachman, Annville, Lebanon County, the naming of the supreme dairy cow at the 2001 Pennsylvania Farm Show, Tuesday, was exciting but a bit unexpected. "I didn't even think the judges were looking at Brownie," said Mischele. "I thought they were concentrating on the Brown Swiss."

But the judges were looking at Potwells Saturns Brownie, and they liked what they saw-the supreme champion of the show. Showing as a Sr. 2-year-old, Brownie comes by her good looks from both her dam and granddam that are classified Excellent in Canada. And she gives milk too. Her first lactation shows these credits: 2y 305d 19,147m 4.5% 834f 667p. Brownie was also 1st two-year-old at the South Central District Jersey show.

Runner up, in the supreme champion class was last year's supreme champion Heilinger Ay Nina Norm Twin, the Brown Swiss champion for Bruce Heilinger, Lebanon.

The champion Ayrshire was Plum Bottom Sailor Alice for Audrey Rodgers, Belleville, Mifflin County.

In the Holstein show, Fountain Farm Charles Nelda was champion for Harry and Aliene Thompson, Carlisle, Cumberland County.

Top Belgians Exhibited At Pa. Farm Show

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Bright and early on Sunday morning, the draft horse halter classes began.

There was much excitement in the ring as more than 30 draft horses showed off their beauty.

The Ryburn's won grand champion mare overall and best of the Belgian breed with C.H. Eddie's Donna, their 3-year-old mare. They also earned the prize of reserve champion mare overall with Marsh's Surprise Package.

The Ryburn Homestead Farm is located in Washington on 283 acres. Here the Ryburn family raises Belgian horses and milk about 39 dairy cattle. J. Mark Ryburn is the seventh generation to run the family farm.

The grand champion Belgian stallion, S.G.F. Masters Bob, was owned and shown by Sherwood Groves Farm of Tunkhannock. Sherwood Groves Farm also won the Belgian junior champion mare, S.G.F. Visions Rose, and first place in mated team-geldings, Mick and Bear.

Congressman Don Sherwood and Gary Groves raise Belgians on 55 acres in Wyoming County. They have 16 horses and show in the halter and hitch classes.

The Belgian breed was also superior in the unicorn hitch, with the horses from Sunny Hill Farm owned by Ken and Karen Sandoe of Myerstown taking the trophy. The obstacle course, Rocky Ridge Acres, owned by Fred L. Kiger of Waynesburg, maneuvered their team through cones, bridges, straight lines, zigzags, and a mailbox to win the blue ribbon.

Angus Bull, Heifer Are Supreme Champs

MICHELLE RANCK
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — "The beef industry has made some progress," said show judge Tom Turner.

Pennsylvania cattle compares well against competition from other areas, said Turner, a professor of animal science at Ohio State University.

"It's backed off the extremes to get the package together and not emphasizing having the most of one thing. Traits such as size or muscle are important but you don't want to maximize them and give up other things. It's really an optimization process. Breeders have gotten better at putting the whole package together."

The best of the industry's "whole packages" entered the Farm Show's main arena on Monday to compete in the breeding show.

"Kiefers Fullback" continued to bring home top placing for the Kiefer family — Joseph, Cheryl, Jeffrey and Jessica — as the junior yearling took home the grand champion bull placing. The J.H. Kiefer Farm, Bangor, Northampton County, has exhibited animals at the Farm Show for 17 years.

The bull "can put it all together," said Angus show judge Fred Penick, who also noted the bull's stoutness and thickness worked to give the animal top placing.

"He's done well all fall," said Jeffrey.

In addition the bull, two years old this month, was a champion at the Eastern National Show in Maryland, a New York State Fair champion, and a reserve champion at the Eastern States Exposition in Massachusetts and New Jersey State Fair competition.

The bull is homebred and raised. Jeffrey also gives credit to C.J. Cattle Co., which helped to fit the animal. Last year C.J. Furlong had the grand champion bull honor.

The Kiefers, who own a 30-acre, several-generation family farm, plan to expand in the future. "Hopefully we can keep growing," said Jeffrey. The family owns 30 head of cows and would like to increase to a 40 or 50 cow-calf herd.

When making breeding decisions, Jeffrey looks at structure, muscle, and temperament. "He (Kiefers Fullback) is a pup. I can walk out in the pasture and put a halter on him and lead him right in."

A second-generation homebred Angus heifer, "Miss Charlie" is the third supreme champion female for Dale and Brenda Rains, Mercer, Mercer County. The Farm Show is the first time in the ring for the junior heifer calf, born in early March.

The heifer impressed the judges with her type, structure, amount of muscle, overall dimension and mass for her age. "She has a very good pedigree behind her also," said Brenda Rains. As for future plans for the heifer, "we'll see how she does between now an the summer. She may be back again next year, it depends on how she grows.

"I've been telling my husband, 'I really like this calf,'" said Rains.

The Rains family has been in the Angus business for 86 years. They operate on three farms and 220 acres of pasture, hay, corn, and oats — all crops grown strictly for the cattle, according to Rains.

Forty-five brood cows and a side business of ten school buses keeps the family busy, said Rains.

The Rains family has brought six or seven head of cattle to the Farm Show for more than 20 years.

Fred Penick, Hebron, Ohio, judged the Maine-Anjou, Shorthorn, and Angus show. Penick was joined by judge Tom Turner, Columbus, Ohio, who judged the Hereford, Simmental, and Limousin shows.

It's Farm Show Sale Time As 22 Receive Scholarships

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — A day that included 500 animals going on the auction block here at the Farm Show also featured 22 fortunate recipients of the annual Farm Show scholarship.

In it's eighth year, the scholarship committee awarded $1,500 scholarships to 22 Pennsylvania youth who are pursuing a post-secondary education. Winners were selected based on scholastic achievements, 4-H or FFA involvement, school activities, and a history of involvement in the livestock events at the Farm Show.

Two hundred registered buyers were on hand at the beginning of the sale Thursday morning.

Grand champion junior market steer, won by Jack Clark, 11, Houstontown, sold to Hoss's Steak and Seafood House, Duncansville, for $15,000.

Grand champion junior market swine, exhibited by Brandon Winebark, 14, Myerstown, was sold for $4,500, also by Hoss's.

Grand champion junior market lamb, exhibited by Gabriel Svonavec, Rockwood, was sold for $3,300 to C & C Enterprises, Rossiter.

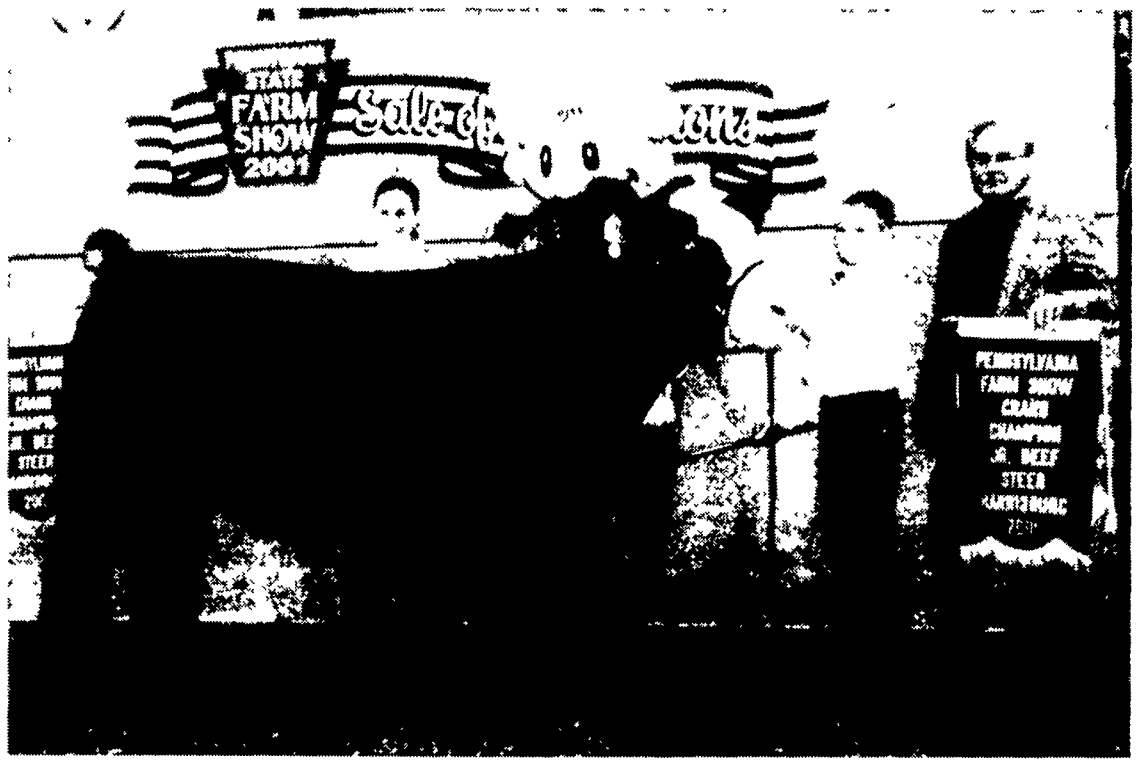
Reserve champion steer, exhibited by Aaron Sisler, 18, Greene County, was sold to Old Guard Insurance of Lancaster for $2,750.

Reserve market hog, exhibited by Amy Becker, Manheim, sold for $2,100 to Hatfield Quality Meats.

Reserve market lamb, exhibited by Alex Langhans, Elizabethville, went for $2,250 to Fox's Market, Middletown.

Sam Hayes Jr., state secretary of agriculture, assisted in the presentation of the scholarship awards.

The first fund established after the 1993 Farm Show Sale of Champions supplied the initial scholarship money. Part of the proceeds from each year's sale is donated to the fund. The nonprofit Farm Show Scholarship Foundation oversees the fund, administering contributions and distributing scholarships.



Grand champion junior market steer, won by Jack Clark, 11, Houstontown, at halter, sold to Hoss's Steak and Seafood House, Duncansville, represented by Bill Campbell, far right, for $15,000.

Including this year, $169,500 has been awarded to 121 individuals. Besides handling the scholarship program, the foundation has created an Ambassadors Club, a nonprofit, tax-exempt organization designed to increase scholarship funds for rural youth.

This year's Farm Show Scholarship recipients are:

• Molly Marie Ault, an 18-year-old graduate of New Oxford High School. The daughter of Dale and Cindy Ault of Hanover, Molly attends Delaware Valley College where she is pursuing a degree in large animal science. As a 4-H and FFA member, Molly has exhibited market swine and lambs at past Farm Shows. Molly's plans include working with children as an agricultural extension agent. 'I enjoy working with children and livestock, which makes agricultural extension an ideal career for me. It is the perfect way to serve the agricultural industry and community," she said.

• Renee Marie Baker, the daughter of Robert and Donna Baker of New Alexandria. An 18-year-old graduate of Derry Area High School, Renee was active in her school FFA program where she served as chapter president and reporter. Renee, who has exhibited market swine at past Farm Shows, began attending Penn State University's Altoona campus in August 2000. Upon graduation, the agricultural education major plans to work as a high school agriculture teacher and FFA adviser. "My high school agriculture teacher was a role model for me, and I hope to one day be a role model for students; instilling in them a sense of pride for agriculture," Renee said. 'I hope to educate young adults with an agricultural interest about the endless career possibilities within the agricultural industry."

• Heather Marie Bankert, an 18-year-old aspiring special education major at Millersville University, she is the daughter of Wayne and Sue Bankert. This active 4-H member and former lamb exhibitor at the Farm Show was graduated from Red Lion Area Senior High School in June 2000. Heather began her 4-H career with little knowledge about sheep. In the 11 years since, she has gained insight into the sheep industry and experience in leadership, community service, and mentoring. She said, "4-H has taught me to be a strong leader, to keep a positive attitude, and to put the needs of others before mine. I have performed numerous demonstrations at club meetings and day camps in addition to helping younger members practice their skills."

• Gerald Matthew Boyd, an elementary/special education major at Millersville University. The 22-year-old is the son of Kerry and Deb Boyd of Ephrata. Gerald was graduated from Ephrata Senior High School and is a former member of several 4-H clubs, including swine, dairy, and goat. Gerald was an active 4-H member for several years and was a member of the Pennsylvania 4-H Livestock Judging Team in 1995. The most important thing he believes 4-H has taught him is to help other people. "In today's world, people are so busy with their own lives that they often find no time to help other people. To me, there is no greater satisfaction than helping someone who is less fortunate than I, and 4-H has afforded me that opportunity through numerous community service projects," he said.

• Sarah Elizabeth Boyd, 19, Ephrata. The daughter of Kerry and Deb Boyd, she was graduated from Ephrata Senior High School in 1999. The former Cloister FFA member attends Millersville University where she is pursuing a degree in elementary/special education. Sarah, an 11-year veteran of the 4-H program, has exhibited swine, sheep, goats, and dairy cattle at past Farm Shows. She has also developed many skills through 4-H including record keeping, good sportsmanship, and public speaking. "The most important lesson 4-H has taught me is how to be a powerful public speaker. I hope to use the skills 4-H has taught me in my teaching career," she said.

• Emily Kerr Cloninger, a 2000 graduate of Penns Valley

Strite's Orchard's Apples Take Best Of Show

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Strite's Orchard's plump, delicious apples grown in Harrisburg caused quite a stir within the produce area at the Pennsylvania Farm Show.

Not only were they the best of show winners, but they also won the gift package, gift basket, best bushel of apples, best bagged apples, best consumer package, and best gift package or gift basket.

The best bushel of apples, grown by Strite's Orchard, were auctioned off Jan. 10 during the Auctioneers Association Bid Calling Contest. The proceeds for the sale benefits the South Central Pennsylvania Food Bank.

Apples are judged on size, color, firmness, shape, and congruency among the apples in a particular package or group. Several different types of apples were entered this year, including Rome Beauty Apples, Red and Yellow Delicious, McIntosh, Imperial, Granny Smith, Stayman, and several other varieties.

Another competitor, Dwight Mickey of Chambersburg, won the best overwrap tray of apples, best plate of five apples, and the second in the gift basket and gift package classes.

She also served as the 2000-2001 Pennsylvania State Alternate Dairy Princess. This 18-year-old exhibited market swine at the Farm Show for the past five years through her local 4-H program. Emily's experiences in 4-H have helped her gain knowledge about different animals as well as herself. She said about her 4-H experience, "It's more than just learning about animals. It is an experience in personal growth. 4-H has enabled me to become the person I am today."

• Lauren Jae Ferringer, a senior at Marion Center Area High School. The 18-year-old is taking classes at Indiana University of Pennsylvania while finishing her high school education. The daughter of Robert and Sandra Ferringer, she resides in Home. Lauren hopes to earn a degree in veterinary medicine from Penn State. Lauren has served as an officer in several 4-H clubs and is the Indiana County Fair Queen and president of her high school FFA chapter. She believes that participation in these activities has taught her responsibility and given her an appreciation for hard work. "There is no day off when you are raising animals," she said. 'The skills I have learned from my experiences in 4-H and FFA will prove valuable in my career as a veterinarian."

• James Richard Fidler, 18, West Alexander. This 2000 McGuffey High School graduate is the son of Richard and Mary Fidler. An avid high school athlete, he balanced his track, cross-country, and wrestling involvement with 4-H and FFA activities. James attends Waynesburg College. Although he has not yet decided on a major, his experiences in 4-H and FFA have taught him skills that he will use throughout his life. James said, "Raising animals takes a lot of responsibility. Not only do I feed and exercise them every day, I have to keep accurate records of costs and veterinary treatments. It is also my obligation as a production agriculturalist to inform the public about the wide scope of agriculture."

• Bart Eugene Gill, a 19-year-old from Newport. The son of Gary and Trudy Gill, he was graduated from Newport High School in 1999. During high school, he was a member of National Honor Society, band, choir, and FFA. He was also active in several 4-H clubs and served as the state FFA south-central region vice president from 1999-2000. Bart is a first-year student at the University Park Campus of Penn State. In the past, he has exhibited lambs, swine, and steers at the Farm Show. His career goal is to teach agriculture at the high school or university level. "My experiences have given me a new appreciation for agriculture and the scope of the industry," Bart said. 'My goal is to teach the younger generation about agriculture and offer them the same opportunities that I was afforded."

• Brian Richard Hoover, the 18-year-old son of Richard and Barbara Hoover of Washington, Washington County. He graduated from McGuffey High School in 2000. Brian was a varsity wrestler, a member of the varsity football team, and an active member of his local 4-H

Northeast Order Uniform Price For November 2000

BOSTON, Mass. — Erik F. Rasmussen, Market Administrator for the Northeast Marketing Area, has announced that the statistical uniform price for November is $13.36 per hundredweight or $1.15 per gallon for milk delivered to plants located in Suffolk County, Mass. (Boston). The November statistical uniform price is $13.26 for delivery to plants in New York, N.Y., and $13.16 for delivery to plants in Philadelphia.

The statistical uniform price is the benchmark minimum producer blend price paid to dairy farmers, prior to allowable deductions, for milk containing 3.5 percent butterfat, 2.99 percent protein, and 5.69 percent other solids. The price received by an individual dairy farmer will vary as the component composition of a farm's milk differs from the established benchmarks.

Mr. Rasmussen also stated that the producer price differential (PPD) for November is $4.79 per hundredweight for milk delivered to plants located in Suffolk County. The PPD represents each producer's share of the value generated by the marketwide pool on a hundredweight basis.

The PPD, which is added to the payment producers receive for their milk's components, is adjusted for the location of the receiving plant. The statistical uniform price and PPD decrease by scheduled amounts the more distant the plant receiving producer milk is from Suffolk County.

The Class prices for milk pooled in November are as follows: Class I, $15.07 (Suffolk County, Mass.); Class II, $13.68; Class III, $8.57; and Class IV, 413. Had the Northeast Order been in effect in 1999, comparable class prices for November 1999 would have been: Class I $16.15, Class II $12.26, Class III $10.57, and Class IV price $11.54.

The component values for November are protein, $0.9149 per pound; butterfat, $1.5745 per pound; other solids, $0.0565 per pound; and nonfat solids, $0.8617 per pound.

Milk receipts from producers totaled 1.859 billion pounds. Class I utilization, milk processed as beverage milk, was 49.2 percent of producer milk receipts. The average Class I utilization, for the three predecessor orders that were combined to form the Northeast Order, was 45.5 percent in November 1999.

The manufacture of Class II products such as cream, ice cream, yogurt, and cottage cheese utilized 17.1 percent of producer milk. Milk used to manufacture Class III products such as cheese (American and Italian) and evaporated and condensed products utilized 28.5 percent of total milk receipts. Class IV usage (butter, nonfat and whole milk powder) equaled 5.2 percent of the total.

Forwood Honored At Pennsylvania Draft Horse, Mule Association Meeting

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Marvyn Forwood of Delta was honored for his lifetime commitment to the draft horse industry by receiving an honorary membership to the Pennsylvania Draft Horse and Mule Association at its Farm Show meeting.

"This is a gentleman you may find anywhere, constantly supporting the draft horse industry. He always has a wealth of information to share with the young and old," said Luke Berkhart, president of the Pennsylvania Draft Horse Association.

Forwood has been active with the Percheron horse industry since the 1940s with the purchase of his first Percheron mare. Today, Marvyn Forwood's first mare has more than 9,000 descendents, representing more than one-fourth of all U.S. registered Percherons. Forwood has more than 178 registered horses.

An avid supporter of the Pennsylvania Farm Show, Forwood started displaying his horses here in 1941. Marvyn has been at almost every Farm Show since, receiving champion honors 11 times with his Percherons.

Forwood has served as a national director for the American Percheron Association board and as a member of the Pennsylvania Draft Horse Association, the Maryland Draft Horse Association, and the Maryland Percheron Association.

Producers Reject Pork Checkoff

WASHINGTON, D.C. — "The Pork Checkoff Program does not have the support of the producers it serves and therefore cannot fulfill its stated purpose. Accordingly, I am directing USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service to prepare and issue a final rule to terminate the order and the program conducted under it."

That was the statement U.S. Agriculture Secretary Dan Glickman made on Thursday regarding the Pork Checkoff Referendum.

In a vote of 14,396 for and 15,951 against the checkoff, pork producers voted against the pork promotion and research program funded by a mandatory assessment on pork products.

"Last year, I ordered a referendum on the Pork Checkoff Program. As a matter of basic fairness, I believe that producers deserve the opportunity to vote on this checkoff program," said Glickman. "It is, after all, a mandatory assessment, akin to a tax, that all producers must pay even if they disagree with it. The checkoff derives its legitimacy from the support of producers, and pork producers have endured dramatic changes in their industry since 1988, the year the checkoff was established and the last time producers were able to vote on this issue. So, in addition to upholding the bedrock democratic principle of the right to vote, it is appropriate and necessary to determine whether a majority of pork producers do, in fact, continue to support the checkoff.

"The preamble to the referendum rule states that the checkoff program will be terminated if termination is favored by a majority of those voting."

The referendum was conducted between August 18 and September 21.

Said Glickman, "I realize that this decision is of great significance to the pork industry and to pork producers. My decision was not reached lightly. After carefully considering all points of view, I have concluded that a program that imposes mandatory assessments on pork producers and importers must have the demonstrable support of its participants in order to achieve the objectives of the law. The Pork Checkoff Program does not have that support."

clubs and FFA chapter. He was an exhibitor of market swine, lambs, and breeding sheep at the Farm Show. This pharmacy major attends the University of Pittsburgh in Greensburg where he is enrolled in a seven-year program. He believes the strong work ethic instilled in him by 4-H and FFA leaders will help him reach his career goals. "Having a strong work ethic in college is extremely important," Brian said. '4-H and FFA have made me realize that mediocre performance is not acceptable."

• Jamie Lyn Hower, 19, of Bethlehem. A 1999 graduate of Nazareth Area High School, she is the daughter of Ned and Linda Hower. This powderpuff football and varsity golf player was also active in her local 4-H horse and beef clubs. Jamie showed market steers and breeding beef at the Farm Show for several years. Jamie is undecided in her major at Millersville University, but plans to be a veterinary technician. She credits her 4-H experiences for providing the knowledge which has allowed her to succeed and giving her the wisdom to teach others. "I began my 4-H career with one Angus heifer and at the end of my final year my herd had expanded to 28 head," Jamie said. "Now I coach 4-H members on the potato judging team and give demonstrations about animal nutrition, showmanship, and fitting."

• Ann Marie Leed, an 18-year-old from Myerstown. The daughter of Robert and Nancy Leed, she was FFA president of the Eastern Lebanon High School chapter. A National Honor Society member in high school, Ann also earned the FFA Star Farmer Degree and the honor of Outstanding Ag Student. She was active in 4-H beef and sheep clubs and she exhibited market lambs at the Farm Show for seven years. Ann attends Iowa State University. Her animal science major is the first step on the path to securing her career as an animal geneticist. She said her years in the 4-H program and FFA have taught her perseverance and provided her with a strong work ethic that will help her attain her degree. "It is my dream to earn a Ph.D. in animal genetics so one day I can leave my mark on the livestock industry. This way, I can help the rancher with 1,000 head of ewes and the beginning 4-H member raising his first lamb for the fair," she said.

• William George Leib, son of Robert and Suzanne Leib of Mechanicsburg. The 19-year-old graduated from Cumberland Valley High School in 1999 after serving as FFA chapter treasurer, secretary, and president. Bill also earned the prestigious FFA Star Farmer Award and American FFA Degree. In addition to his involvement in numerous county 4-H clubs, Bill earned the distinguished title of Pennsylvania State FFA vice president in 1999-2000. Now studying culinary arts at Johnson and Wales University, Bill plans one day to use his expertise as an executive chef at a five star restaurant. Bill said that as a chef, "I will be able to promote the agricultural industry by producing a delicious end product. One day I may become an instructor at the university and teach others that agriculture isn't limited to the farm; it spans from the farm gate to the consumer's plate."

• Jeremy Paul Miller, 20, son of Jerry and Susan Miller, Halifax. A 1999 graduate of Halifax Area High School, he was a member of the drama club, chorus, student council, and the conservation club. An active FFA and 4-H member, he held many offices in both organizations. Exhibiting market swine at the Farm Show was a key part in his involvement. Jeremy is majoring in missions at Lancaster Bible College and plans to work abroad after graduation. He said, "There are many countries who suffer from famine and lack of provisions because of outdated agricultural techniques. With my background in 4-H and FFA, I can share my knowledge about agriculture to a diverse culture, trying to make their lives easier."

• Adam Michael Poole, 18-year-old son of Gary and Pamela Poole. A resident of Connellsville, Fayette County, he graduated from Connellsville Area Senior High School in 2000. While in high school, Adam was a member of National Honor Society, the varsity tennis team, and 4-H. He received many academic and leadership awards besides showing market hogs at the Farm Show. Adam was accepted to Saint Vincent College, where he is a first-year student. He is pursuing a degree in biology and predentistry in hopes of becoming an oral surgeon. While in college, Adam spends time working as a representative for the student government and is a member of the collegiate tennis team. He said, "My experiences with the people within the 4-H network have positively influenced my maturation. I have become a self-starter, unafraid to accept a challenge, and put forth my best effort."

• Kenneth Paul Reed, 19, son of Kenneth and Jana Reed of Derry. Ken attended Derry Area High School where he was a wrestler and a member of the varsity football and baseball teams. He showed market swine and lambs at the past four Farm Shows and for several years at his county fair. Now a first-year student at the University Park Campus of Penn State, Ken plans to work in crop production as an agronomist upon graduation. He is convinced that the public relations skills he learned in 4-H and FFA will be a huge asset to him in his future career. "Showing livestock at fairs and the Farm Show gives us a chance to meet and mingle with people from the industry. Over the past years, I have had many opportunities to develop my communication skills and I attribute my success in that area to 4-H and FFA," Ken said.

• Megan Leigh Regula, the daughter of Anthony and Marsha Regula of Brownfield, Fayette County. The 18-year-old graduated from Laurel Highlands High School in 2000. While in high school, she was involved in track, ski club, Spanish club, and National Honor Society. This 4-H member has exhibited swine at the Farm Show since 1998 and was named Outstanding 4-H Senior Girl in Fayette County in 2000. Now a college student, Megan attends Penn State University majoring in animal bioscience. She plans to transfer to Penn State's University Park Campus in fall 2001. Megan commends her family and 4-H leaders for the support they have given her over the years.

"4-H has been such a positive force in my life. It gave me the courage to confront any situation with confidence. My determination has grown significantly due to encouragement from my family and club leaders," she said.

• Jessica Schmidt, 18, of Drumore. A 2000 graduate of Solanco High School, she is the daughter of Peter and Laurie Schmidt. In high school, she earned honor roll and distinguished honor roll status while holding offices in both 4-H and FFA. Jessica, who was named Outstanding Ag Student in her FFA chapter in 1998, has exhibited market lambs, breeding sheep, and Angus heifers at past FFA. Jessica, who was named Outstanding Ag Student in her FFA chapter in 1998, has exhibited market lambs, breeding sheep, and Angus heifers at past Farm Shows. An animal sciences major at Penn State University's York Campus, Jessica commutes to school from her home in Lancaster County. She knows she will succeed in college because of her experiences in 4-H and FFA. Jessica said, "I was ready to give up 4-H after trying to halter break my first lamb, but one of the first hard lessons I learned was that of perseverance. I was totally responsible for raising my animals, and I knew I had to finish what I started."

• Nicole Lynn Smith, the 19-year-old daughter of George and Shari Smith of New Enterprise. She graduated from Northern Bedford County High School in 1999 after active participation in track, soccer, cheerleading, and the Livestock Judging Team. Nicole also exhibited market swine in 4-H and FFA for nine years. This nursing major commutes to Allegany College of Maryland. After she obtains her degree in nursing, Nicole hopes to earn a degree in veterinary medicine. Although Nicole has high aspirations, she knows the knowledge base she gained in 4-H and FFA will help her reach her goals. "In addition to introducing me to fundamentals of the livestock industry, 4-H and FFA have taught me responsibility and communication skills that I will be able to use in any career," she said.

• Lucas D. Svonavec, 18, of Rockwood. A 2000 graduate of Rockwood Area High School, he is the son of David and Betty Svonavec. This former FFA member held several FFA offices and participated in numerous community service projects. In addition to his Farm Show exhibits of market steers, lambs, and swine, Luke earned several awards from active service within his local 4-H program. He is majoring in business administration at Allegany Community College of Maryland. Luke's future goals involve retail sales of livestock supplies and equipment. He enjoys production agriculture and believes he will succeed in his future career because he has found his place. "Being involved in the production aspects of agriculture has not only taught me responsibility, marketing, economics, and motivation; it has provided me with a rewarding life and a place where I feel I truly belong," Luke said.

Also, Ag Secretary Hayes recently purchased two registered Dorset ewe lambs and presented them to two individuals as part of a contest. The contest involved writing a 300-word essay about why a 4-H or FFA member should consider a career in agriculture.

Winning the ewes, from Nix Besser Farm, were John Strawbridge, Lehigh County 4-H sheep and swine clubs, and Jessica Darr, scholarship winner.

During Farm Show week, Wednesday night's attendance was the "highest we've ever had," said Dennis Grumbine, Farm Show director.

Also, this was the first year that a programmable message board, above the auctioneer's stand, was used. The cost of the scrolling board: about $10,000.

The board, placed with help by commercial sponsors, provided the name of the exhibitor and who purchased the animal at point of final bid.

Ag Secretary Sam Hayes noted the sale "provides an exciting conclusion to the week-long schedule of youth competition, spotlighting our number one industry."

Starting with the youth is important "if we are to have a good 21st century," Hayes said.

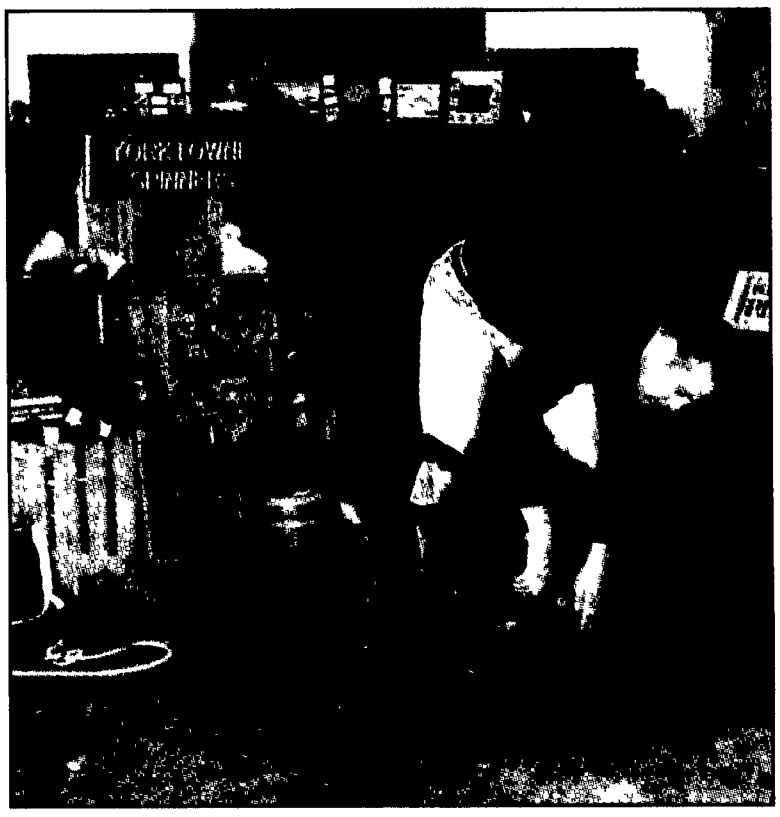
Shearing, Spinning, And Weaving Wool Into Gold



Where the shawl originates . . . Nathan Good, who won the shearer award for the evening, proceeds to "belly up" his Border Leicester lamb.

MICHELLE RANCK
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Crowds of spectators and numerous media representatives jammed the Farm Show's small arena Monday evening to watch as four teams worked to transform wooly fleeces into handcrafted shawls.

Butler County Pedalers took home first place for their team effort.

The event was a record-breaking night as the second-place, dark-colored shawl made by the Yorktown Spinners garnered $1700 at the auction following the contest. Buyer Jan Frushone Gibas has purchased the group's shawls since 1998.

The Schaffer family of New Bethlehem, Clarion County, purchased the first-place shawl

In addition Nathan Good won the Shearer Award and Ken Snyder took home the Fleece Award. Butler County Pedalers won Team's Choice plaque, and Wini Labrecque, of that same team, took home the Weaver's Award. The Premium Spinning Group Award went to the Penn Wheels team.

The first-place Butler County Pedalers team included Carol Buttignol, Susan Dyer-Lightner, and Linda Gross, spinners; Wini Labrecque, weaver; and Dean Sherwin, shearer. They received a $200 prize.

Second place, winning $180, was Yorktown Spinners, York County. The team included Greta Dise, Leslie Orndorff, Chris Erickson, spinners; Kris Peters, weaver; and Nathan Good, shearer.

The Pennsylvania Mohair and Cashmere Growers Association, Cumberland County, took home third place and $150. The team consisted of Jody Sheffer, Binnie Boig, and Terry Kunst, spinners; Barb Fessler, weaver, and Ken Snyder, shearer.

Winning fourth place and $120 was Team Penn Wheels, Bucks County. Elizabeth Barnes, Janet Lapsley, and Cindy Muzzy, spinners; Wendy Chavin, weaver; and Royal Unzinger, shearer, made up the team.

Teams were judged on team identification, shearing, spinning, design, weaving, and speed.

Team identification points were based on the unified, original appearance of the team.

Shearers were judged on speed, lack of second cuts, or cuts on the sheep, plus uniformity and even shearing.

Judges watched spinners for individual plus team skills, as each member attempted to spin evenly to produce an even product.

A large percentage of the final score hinged on the design and appearance of the finished shawl. Originality of design, difficulty of weave, color-coordination between warp and weft, softness, "drapeability," and execution of the finished fringe were taken into account.

Teams were also awarded a bonus for the order of their finish.

The shawls must measure at least 22 inches wide and 78 inches long.

During the evening children were given a chance to try their hand at carding, spinning, and weaving sponsored by the Lancaster Spinners organization.

First Lady of Pennsylvania, Michele Ridge, was in attendance and officially started the contest with the call to "belly up your sheep."

"The sheep-to-shawl contest has become a well-recognized tradition and an anticipated event by so many Pennsylvanians," said Ridge. "It is a unique opportunity to see how the raw material becomes a finished product."

Besides a Highland dancing demonstration by Catherine Thomson, the crowd was treated to music with an ethnic flair from Quittapahilla Highlanders Pipes and Drums band.

The new Pennsylvania Lamb and Wool Queen was also named during the evening's events. Deidra Smith, 16, Glencoe, Somerset County, will represent the industry for the coming year as the new queen. Along with her sister she raises 4-H Suffolk sheep.

The daughter of Dwight and Gail Smith, she attends Berlin Brothersvalley High School.

The event is sponsored by the Pennsylvania Sheep and Wool Growers' Association.

After shearing the sheep Ken Snyder continues his team effort by carding the wool for the duration of the contest. Snyder also received the Fleece Award for his team.

Judges deliberate as they determine points for team identification, shearing, spinning, design, weaving, and speed, with quality always a consideration. Four judges evaluated these factors plus overall quality of each team.

Contestants talk with judges during the Farm Show's Monday evening contest. Judges watch spinners for individual plus team skills, as each member attempted to spin evenly to produce a uniform product. Fleece preparation, which may be done by all team members, was also judged.

This shawl has reached its final stage, is fresh off the loom, and is ready to be taken to the judges for final consideration. The teams are awarded a bonus for the order of their finish.

On Being a Farm Wife (and other hazards)

Joyce Bupp

Sometimes, I'd be tempted to just bag it.

Especially when winter is displaying its meanest side, hammering us with winds, socking us with sleet and snow, or leaning on the thermometer 'til it slides down in submission.

But Derra's fiercely-wagging tail and doggy grin of expectation, and a couple of cats milling around our feet in anticipation, coax me back outside when evening barn chores are finished and a cozy easy chair beckons.

So we go moonlight meandering.

Moonlight meandering has been a fresh and frosty adventure most nights so far this brisk, "brrrrrr" winter. On less blustery evenings, we mosey up the grade toward the bunker silo and high field road, to admire the neighborhood landscape from the farm's loftier hills. Derra zips ahead, nose against the ground for the scent of the deer which travel through from woods to woods.

Most evenings, though, we head for the more sheltered, low-lying meadow. The bulk of the farm's wildlife hangs out in that area, so the buffet of scents and smells and territorial markers they leave are hugely entertaining to Derra and her cat groupies.

By the time I reach the edge of the yard, Derra is already down by the second pond, nose working in high gear. Spotting a cream-colored "yellow" lab on a snowy, moonlit night is more by assumption than by eye, but Derra's jingling "dog tags" give her away.

In recent years, with a little engineering assist from The Farmer, the swampy meadow has morphed into a pond-strewn wetlands area. As the cattle were fenced off from the springhead and lowlands areas, pasture has been converted to fish and wildlife habitat, including several ponds.

Those ponds have been growing ice cover since late November, one of the earliest long-term freezes we can remember. While the ice is rough and bumpy, the cats are just delighted with these hard, slick rinks. Suddenly there are these large expanses of flat shiny surface providing easy short cuts, far superior to poking one's dainty little paws down through rough, ice-crusted snow.

So the cats race across the frozen ponds, from one to another to another, creeping under the piers and pausing to investigate the ragged lines of animal tracks which criss cross the ice's snow coyer. Patches of dried cattails along the frozen edges hold yet more scents of ground rodents and water birds to add interest to this buffet of things to sniff.

Derra jingles back from a side excursion, joins the sniffing party among a patch of cattails and starts digging frantically with her big front paws. Though she makes only a minimal dent in the frozen ground, that muskrat scent is just too enticing to ignore. Prolonged concentration is no Derra's great suit, so she soon abandons the excavation and jingles off in another direction.

Stars sparkle from the big black upturned bowl of sky overhead, with Orion the Hunter tramping through the heavens above the woodlot, as he always does these wintry nights. A gust of wind rattles the dry grass patches and the cats come charging from their ice-capades to pause at my feet, waiting to see which direction we go next.

Marking the far end of our wetlands is the Frog Pond, an enhanced swamp with slightly raised islands for goose and duck nesting. The cat trio races among the small mounds of ice-locked land, sniffing out every hint of smell lingering from last summer's hatching season in this normally inaccessible-to-cats territory. Derra pokes her nose among the young rhododendrons, savoring the unseen marks of fox and squirrel, rabbits and muskrats, frogs, birdlife, and the deer which sneak through on occasion.

The wind picks up more, rattling the bare branches of mulberry and oak and swamp maple. Derra dances back, nose white with snow, still bouncing with the endless energy and pure doggy pleasure she finds on our moonlight meanders. We turn back toward the lights of the house, the cats racing ahead, Derra pausing for one last moonlight muskrat check.

Back inside, Derra races upstairs while I hang up layers of outerwear, coats, hats, gloves, then slide another chunk of wood on the fire. By the time I reach the top of the basement stairs, she is sprawled at the foot of easy chair, where The Farmer is sound asleep. Both are snoring.

When it comes to promoting restfulness, few things are better than a healthy dose of moonlit fresh air.

Jack-In-The-Box Cheese Carving Springs Into First

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The third annual Creative Cheese Carving Contest was conducted at the 85th Pennsylvania State Farm Show. When the carving was complete, Angela Housch of Berks County was named the winner, receiving $150. Her jack-in-the-box was the winning cheese sculpture.

The event featured the talents of six amateur contestants demonstrating their cheese-carving skills. Each contestant was provided one hour to sculpt an image from a five-pound block of cheddar cheese.

Mahoning Cheese Company from Smicksburg, Indiana County, provided the cheese for the contestants.

Second place went to Karen Huston of York County, who received $100, and third place went to Wendy Gregory of Perry County, who received $50. Each winner also received a gourmet cheese basket.

To other contestants included Mike Wedrick of Northampton County; Ken Howard from Dauphin County; and Rodney Flenchbauch who resides in York County.

Among the other cheese creations was a cow jumping over the moon, a cat, cow, pig, and a farmer. All carvings were displayed in the cheese sculpture booth in the food court during the week of the Farm Show.

Judges for the event were Lori Burkholder of WGAL, Channel 8; the Pennsylvania Dairy Princess, Melinda Wolfe; and the Virginia State Dairy Princess, Laura Robinson. They were looking for the most creative, visually appealing and original sculpture.

Seniors, are you skipping meals?

Remember when you admonished your children with words like these: "Eat your vegetables, they are good for you." Or, "You won't be strong and healthy if you don't eat!"

You were absolutely right. Now it's time to take your own advice. Studies show that folks who live alone often lose their motivation for cooking. Older men particularly may find shopping or cooking more difficult. They may simply eat less or end up skipping meals altogether.

Women who live alone may just grow tired of kitchen duties and lose interest in eating. These problems can be compounded by the fact that interest in food and appetite often decreases with age.

Requirements for nutrients do not diminish, however. Here are some tips to make cooking and mealtime more pleasurable for older persons who live alone.

Eat near a window with a view you enjoy.

Turn the television or radio on for company, or listen to your favorite music while eating.

Use your best dishes and pretty placemats to create an attractive place setting. If you have flowers in your garden, brighten your table with those.

Try new foods to create a new interest in eating.

Plan meals in advance. Not only will you know what you are going to eat, but you will probably save money and time as well.

Keep a supply of convenience foods for those days when you really do not feel like cooking.

Have standing invitations for dinner with different friends several nights a week.

Buy smaller sized pots and pans for those times you are cooking just for yourself.

On days that you do feel like cooking, cook large quantities. Use divided, covered plates to create your own frozen dinners. Make your meals appealing by using foods with various colors, textures, and temperatures at each meal.

Check out the frozen food section of your grocer's shelves. Many frozen foods are packaged so that you can take out only what you need. That way food is on hand for variety, but you don't have to eat the same food for several days in a row.

Fortified cereal is a good meal for many seniors.

Here is a recipe to enjoy.

Ten-Minute Bean Soup

1 cup canned pinto beans
15-ounce can no-salt added Italian Spiced tomatoes, drained
2 cups low-sodium chicken broth
1 cup water
1 cup frozen, chopped collard greens
½ cup elbow macaroni
½ teaspoon Italian herb seasoning
½ teaspoon garlic powder
Pepper to taste

Put the tomatoes and beans in a saucepan. Mash with a potato masher or hand blender until about ⅓ of the beans are mashed. Add the remaining ingredients and bring to a boil; reduce to simmer and cook until the macaroni is done.

Vocational Horticulture Exhibit Adds Color

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Various categories of floral arrangements adorned the upper level of the northeast corner of the Large Arena during the 85th Pennsylvania State Farm Show.

More than 19 categories of arrangements, ranging from silk bridal bouquets to wall hangings-permanent to dish garden — cacti and succulents and more, exemplified the diversity in the field of floriculture.

Some arrangements were freestanding, such as holiday centerpieces and new arrival displays. Easels of various heights and forms supported others, such as the sympathy sprays, and still others were contained inside glass aquarium.

First through fifth place winners were chosen for each category based on certain criteria such as visual appeal and creativity. From these winners, the best of show winners in the categories of best plant specimen, most creative design, best fresh design, and best permanent design are selected.

Are Fruit And Veggie Washes Worth It?

Some products claim to clean fruits and vegetables better than water. Do they work?

They might work, but there's a bigger question to be asked: Are they worth their price?

First, your question. Most of the "fruit and vegetable wash" products contain surfactants — cleaning agents that attach to oil and dirt and loosen water-resistant substances for quick removal. They work with water by decreasing surface tension and creating emulsification, which allows substances that normally resist water to mix with it, allowing it to be washed away.

By spraying one of these products on the surface of the produce or by soaking the produce in the product and then rinsing with water, you will remove more of the microscopic stuff on the fruit or vegetable's surface than you could just with water.

For people who simply aren't satisfied with rinsing fresh produce in water, these products are a better choice than some other products that have been tried for the same purpose. For example, using baking soda might leave behind sodium, which could affect the food's flavor. Also, baking soda-and-water mixtures vary greatly in their cleaning ability. Vinegar may leave a residual aftertaste, and dish soap is not approved for human consumption. Also, although chlorine bleach is sometimes recommended to clean garden fruits and vegetables after a flood, too-strong mixtures can be toxic.

In most cases, though, a thorough rinsing in fresh water gets fruits and vegetables clean enough to be safe. Food safety experts say what you want to do is rinse off germs that might have adhered to the surface. That's even important for produce that has skin you don't plan to eat, like melons or oranges. If you don't rinse them off, germs on the surface can spread inside when you cut into it.

Most fruits and vegetables should be washed in warm water about 80 to 110 degrees Fahrenheit. That will bring out the product's flavor and aroma while ridding it of germs. An exception is lettuce, radishes, carrots and other produce to be used in salads— wash those in the coldest water available to maintain their crispness.

Caramel Flavor Appeals To Apple Pie Judges At State Contest

Best apple pie bakers, from left, Deb Martin, first; Alicia Knob, third; Kim Miccicke, fourth, and June Peters, fifth. Second-place winner Kathy Noll was not available for photos.

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Amazing creativity reflected America's obsession for apple pie during the annual contest held at the Pennsylvania Farm Show on opening day.

From plain apple pie to those topped with glazed cherries, custards, dough cutouts, or a scattering of nuts and crumbs, entries revealed the versatility of apple pie. Many also contained unique ingredients such as pineapple or coconut.

After qualifying at their local fairs, 59 cooks from across Pennsylvania baked their prize-winning pies for the tough annual competition. This was the 13th year for the contest that vibrates with nervous excitement while judges scrutinize the overall appearance of each pie, the crust's color, flavor, and texture, the "doneness" and flavor of the filling, and the overall creativity of the entry.

While awaiting the judges' decision, Jackie Everitt of the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, tried to allay the nervousness of contestants by giving away prizes for answers to apple trivia and asking questions pertaining to contestants and hometown fairs.

Some of the contestants return year after year in quest of the coveted title of Best Blue Ribbon Apple Pie. Some have placed in the top five in previous competitions, and others haven't yet broken into the winner's circle. Some use the same recipes year after year, but most try different recipes.

Deb Martin, Conestoga, achieved top placing this year with her Caramel Nut Apple Pie. Although a veteran winner in many baking contests (she won first place in the shoo-fly pie contest three years in a row), this was the first year Deb clinched the apple pie prize at the state level.

"My goal is to win all three contests (apple pie, chocolate cake, and shoo-fly)," Deb said. She and her mother Dorothy entered 60 items in food competitions at the state level this year and won ribbons for almost every entry.

Both Deb and her mother entered the apple pie contest this year.

"We use different recipes and ingredients because we have different tastes," Deb said, "but we used apples from the same basket and the same oven for our entries," Deb said.

Her apple pie topped with a real apple carved like a rose grabbed judges' attention and its ingredients of caramels and macadamia nuts burst with unique flavor. But Deb believes the judges' decision was based upon something as basic as the bottom crust.

"It's all in the crust," Deb said. Her crust contains ice water, egg, and vinegar to excel in flakiness and flavor. For her first-place win, Deb received $150 and a cotton throw.

Second place and $90 went to Kathy Noll for her Caramel Apple Pie. Kathy was not in attendance when the winners were announced. She qualified for the state event by first placing at the Oley Valley Fair.

Third place and $60 went to Alicia Knob, Hollidaysburg, for her apple pie that placed first at the Morrison Cove Community Fair.

"My first pie burned and I had to make another one," Alicia said of the hurdles contestants often face. Her pie also included nuts and caramels.

Fourth prize and $40 went to Kim Miccicke, Bernville, who had qualified at the 1987 state fair. This year she used a new recipe also containing caramels.

June Peters of North East placed fifth and collected $35 for her pie, which contained pineapples and was baked in a 4½ quart oval baking dish. June and her husband had a six-hour drive delayed even more by snow and ice, but at least they made it. Three years ago, hazardous driving conditions prevented June's entry from arriving in time for the competition. This year, the Peters came the night before and stayed overnight nearby to guarantee a timely entry.

"I even have a spare pie in the car in case something happened to this one," June said.

After the competition, pies were sliced and distributed to those in attendance. For readers who would like to taste an award-winning pie, here are some recipes.

Beans are a low-fat, low-calorie food that mingles well in many soups and stews.

Considered both a vegetable and a protein, beans are the only food that falls into two groups on the USDA Food Guide Pyramid. Here's a look at the bean nutrition story:

• Nature's Multi-Vitamin — Beans are a concentrated source of many vitamins and minerals that are important for overall good health because they help regulate the chemical processes of the body. Beans are a good source of calcium, iron, magnesium, potassium, and zinc.

• Featuring Folate — Beans are the best vegetable source for folate, an important B vitamin for people of all ages. Studies have linked folate with reduced risk of heart disease and certain types of cancer. Folate also is important for women of childbearing age, as studies show that folate may help reduce the risk of certain birth defects. One cup of cooked beans can provide as much as 366 micrograms of folate, which can help most people reach their daily value.

• Protein & Carb Powerhouse — Beans are packed with protein, which helps build strong muscle, and complex carbohydrates provide energy to help fuel an active lifestyle.

• Figure in Fiber — Studies link high fiber diets to reduced cholesterol levels and lowered cancer risk; just one cup of cooked beans provide as much as 12 grams of fiber, or nearly have the daily value.

ROASTED VEGETABLE AND BEAN SOUP

1 medium eggplant, unpeeled
2 medium zucchini
1 large sweet potato, peeled
1 large white potato, unpeeled
2 large red peppers
1 leek
8-ounces mushrooms
1 teaspoon dried rosemary leaves
½ teaspoon dried sage leaves
6 cloves garlic
15-ounce can garbanzo beans, rinsed, drained
15-ounce can red kidney beans
15-ounce can blackeye beans, rinsed, drained
4 cans (14½-ounces each) vegetable broth or chicken broth
2-3 teaspoons white balsamic vinegar
Salt and pepper, to taste

Line large jelly-roll pan with aluminum foil; spray with cooking spray. Cut eggplant, zucchini, sweet and white potatoes, peppers, and leek into ¼-1-inch pieces; cut mushrooms in half. Arrange all vegetables on jelly roll pan; spray generously with cooking spray and sprinkle with combined herbs. Bake in preheated 425-degree oven until vegetables are browned and tender, 30 minutes.

Spray large saucepan with cooking spray; heat over medium heat until hot. Saute garlic until tender, 2-3 minutes. Add roasted vegetables, beans, vegetable broth and vinegar; heat to boiling. Reduce heat and simmer, covered, 5-10 minutes. Season to taste with salt and pepper.

Pennsylvania Produce Adds ColorTo This Year's Butter Sculpture

MICHELLE RANCK
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — How expressive can 750 pounds of butter be?

If it is carefully molded and sculpted, butter can express not one but several ideas.

This year's annual butter sculpture at the Pennsylvania Farm Show combines the elements of a farmer's market, the produce business, and the dairy industry to showcase important divisions of Pennsylvania's economy.

The sculpture, which features an Amish vendor, customers, and produce, highlights the Department of Agriculture's "Simply Delicious" produce campaign.

The butter sculpture stands in a new, refrigerated display case 8 by 20 feet in size. Food coloring, a new addition to the traditional sculpture, helps to define the produce displayed on the market stand. The color was both air-brushed and hand-painted onto the buttery surface.

"This year's sculpture ties the dairy industry of Pennsylvania with another very important part of the Pennsylvania agriculture economy, the fruit and vegetable division," said Agriculture Secretary Samuel Hayes during the unveiling ceremony.

He commended the dairy industry for "sharing" the sculpture, which "shows that Pennsylvania is multidimensional in agriculture pursuits in recognizing vegetable and fruit growers."

Pennsylvania dairy princess Melinda Wolfe also made remarks on the importance of agriculture during the ceremony.

Sculptor Edward Shank, Middletown, has created the sculpture for six years. Shank estimates that welding the framework took 15 hours, with 50 additional hours spent in the case to shape the butter.

The idea for the sculpture comes from several dairy promotion agencies in consultation with Hayes.

The 750 pounds of butter, packaged in fourteen 55-pound boxes, were donated by Land O'Lakes, Carlisle. Pennsylvania is the fourth leading butter producer in the nation.

Bean Soup With Ham

2 cups dry navy beans
2 quarts water
1 meaty hambone or hamhock
Pepper
1 large onion, chopped
1 large carrot, grated
Celery seed or celery leaves

Wash dry beans. Add water and bring to a boil. Turn off heat and let stand for one hour. Add hambone, hamhock or fresh pork cooked in water until soft. Season with pepper and bring to a boil. Add remaining ingredients, reduce heat to simmer and cook until beans are tender.

A cup of cream may be added before serving.

ANSWER — Thanks to Crystal Stump, Pine Grove, for answering a recipe request for Pepper Pot Soup made with tripe.

Philadelphia Pepper Pot

2 pounds honeycomb tripe
2 pounds plain tripe
1 knuckle veal
1 bunch pot herbs
4 medium-sized potatoes
1 large onion
1 bay leaf
Salt and cayenne pepper to taste
1 cup beef suet, chopped fine
2 cups flour
Water
Salt

Cook tripe the day before using. Wash thoroughly, place in kettle and cover with water. Boil 8 hours. Remove. When cooled, cut into pieces about ½-inch square. The next day, wash the veal knuckle, cover with 3 quarts water and simmer three hours, removing scum as it rises. Remove meat from bones and cut into small pieces.

Strain the broth and return to kettle. Add bay leaf and onion and simmer about one hour. Add potatoes, which have been cut into squares, and the pot herbs. Add meat and tripe and season with salt and cayenne pepper if desired. Make dumplings by combining suet, flour, salt, and enough water to permit rolling the dough into dumplings the size of marbles. Flour well to prevent sticking and drop into hot soup. Cook about 10 minutes, add some chopped parsley and serve at once.

ANSWER — A. Guidas wanted old-fashioned recipes for soups and chilies. Thanks to a reader who sent in several handwritten ones. Unfortunately, she did not include her name to thank. Check out page B6 for more soup recipes on the "Home On The Range" page.

My Grandma's Potato Soup

4 cups potatoes, cubed
4 cups water
1½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon celery seed
2 tablespoons butter
3 hard-boiled eggs, chopped
12-ounce can evaporated milk
Whole milk

At medium-high temperature, boil potatoes, water, and salt until potatoes just start to get soft. Turn stove to warm, add pepper, celery seed, eggs, and butter. Remove from heat and add canned milk. Whole milk may be added to make enough for six servings. Serve immediately.

Southwestern Sausage Chili

2 pounds fresh bulk pork sausages
1 teaspoon salt
2 15-ounce can kidney beans
12-ounce whole kernel corn with peppers (or Mexican corn)
15-ounce can tomato sauce
6-ounce can tomato paste
1 cup water
1 medium-sized onion, chopped
2 teaspoons chili powder
½ cup tortilla chips (crushed)

Brown sausage in Dutch oven. Pour off excess grease. Add remaining ingredients except tortilla chips and bring to a boil. Reduce heat, cover and cook slowly about 30 minutes, stirring occasionally. Sprinkle crushed tortilla chips over top of chili before serving. Serves 8.

Black Bean Turkey Chili

1 pound dry black beans
1½ pounds skinless turkey breast, cut into small pieces
2 cups red pepper, chopped
1½ cups onion, chopped
4 jalapenos, chopped
4 garlic cloves, minced
4 tablespoons vegetable oil
¼ cup chili powder
2 teaspoons cumin seed
1 teaspoon ground coriander
4 tomatoes, chopped
1 cup water

Soak beans in cold water for two hours. Drain. Put beans in a pot and cover with two-inches water. Simmer until beans are tender. Drain and set aside.

Saute red pepper, onion, jalapeno, and garlic in 2 tablespoons vegetable oil. Add chili powder, cumin seed, coriander, and beans. Cook approximately 20 minutes, stirring occasionally. Place half the bean mixture in food processor and process until smooth. Return smooth mixture to the other half.

Brown turkey in 2 tablespoons vegetable oil, until almost done, add tomatoes and cook an additional 5 minutes. Add turkey to bean mixture, add water and simmer 15 more minutes.

Before serving, garnish with sour cream on top. Serves 4-5.

Cooking Tips:

- To eliminate lengthy soaking and cooking time, substitute canned beans for dry beans: 3 (15-16-ounce) cans black beans, drained and rinsed.

Consuming Thoughts

by

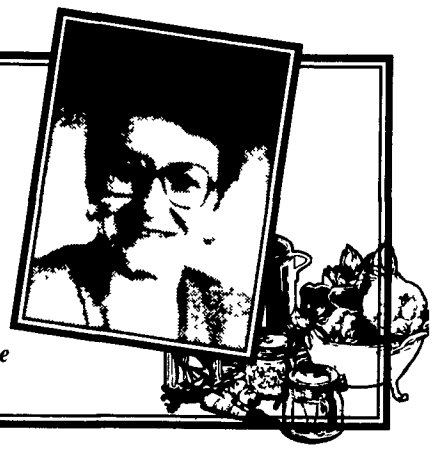
Penn State Extension Home Economist For Berks Co.



Convenience foods save time and effort — that's how they got their name. But some actually can save you money. For instance, instant mashed potatoes, cost less because the water has been taken out, and there's less bulk to ship. Others cost less starting with fresh ingredients because they have been canned or frozen so there isn't the spoilage that occurs with fresh foods.

Still others cost you less than starting with basic ingredients because the manufacturer buys in bulk and passes on some of the savings.

The following convenience foods save you money:

Instant mashed potatoes, preshredded packaged coconut, canned cranberry sauce, frozen, canned, or powdered orange juice and drinks (fresh squeezed cost about 2½ times more), bottled lemon and lime juice (but not plastic squeeze bottles), boxed lasagna skillet dinner, soy protein patties, canned chicken chow mein, boxed pizza mixes, canned Spanish rice, frozen fish sticks.

These convenience foods cost more than homemade, so you can make them using basic ingredients that you have on hand or ingredients readily available at the supermarket.

Frozen meat pot pies, canned stew, frozen chicken chow mein and chicken a la king, canned pork and beans, frozen batter-dipped deep-fried chicken and shrimp, canned salad sandwich spread, stroganoff skillet dinner, frozen haddock dinner, shrimp newburg, and shrimp Creole, yeast roll mixes, frozen and ready-to-serve yeast rolls, frozen ready-to-serve brownies, and cheese spread in a pressure can.

In these price comparisons, the cost of the convenience food was compared to the cost of making the same item at home using a similar recipe. If you use a different recipe — if you put more cheese on your pizza, for example — the price of homemade foods can go up considerably.

Soups and chowders can be cost savors too and are perfect to serve in winter time and will fit into a busy family schedule. Soups such as vegetable, minestrone, bean, and chicken can be prepared ahead and frozen for use when time is short. They can be frozen in single portion servings that can be packed into insulated lunch bags, serving as a cold source to keep other foods safe until lunch time when they can be reheated in a microwave oven. The cost of preparing these personalized servings is much cheaper than buying commercially prepared servings for singles.

Home-prepared soups can be made to fit special dietary needs. People with a need for reduced sodium dishes will be very pleased to have tasty soups with little sodium and reduced fat.

Make-your-own casseroles can be less expensive, and they are a great way of using leftover meats, fish, poultry, and assorted vegetables. You may want to make a white sauce or use a low-fat beef or poultry base. Just select a protein (eggs, chicken, ham, tuna, chipped beef or ground beef) and add a starch (pasta, rice), add a vegetable (broccoli, zucchini, green beans, spinach), add a sauce (condensed soups, white sauce or tomato sauce) and add a few extras (sliced mushrooms, celery, cheese or onion, and so forth) to mix and match a food from each category. Bake in a 350°F oven for one hour. Be creative and make your own designer casseroles.

Playing Holiday Financial 'Catchup'

The holidays are over and now you begin the task of paying the price. If you are one of the many who used credit to finance the holidays, the next few months can put additional strain on your budget. You may need to avoid unnecessary spending and cut back on regular extras in order to bring down or pay off your credit card balance.

Where To Cut Corners

To balance your budget and reduce spending, you have a know exactly how much money you have coming in and going out. You may find that your family doesn't have a clear picture of where the money is going. In that case, try the following:

- Write down every item on which money is spent. Figure out where your money is going.
- Put a lid on your spending.
- Put your credit cards away.
- Agree within your family that every purchase over a certain amount will be brought to the family for discussion prior to purchase.
- Don't go shopping as a form of entertainment.
- Looking for upcoming big bills, such as an insurance payment due twice a year. Plan on how you will pay them.
- Make a shopping list and weigh the importance of each item. Reduce the number of shopping trips.
- For those things you feel are essential, can you find less expensive substitutes? Make snacks instead of buying them, potluck with friends, shop at garage sales.
- Consider inexpensive entertainment and gifts of time instead of things that cost a lot.
- Share with others whenever possible.

If you find that even the tightest budget you can live with (really that tightest, not just a brief attempt to reduce spending), is still not enough to make payments on all of your bills, you need to make further decisions.

No matter how bad your situation may be, don't ignore your bills and creditors. Prompt actions is very important; let your creditors know you are having trouble before you miss payments and the situation becomes worse. There are steps that can be taken that will allow you to repay your debts at a pace that will work with your budget. If your situation requires even more attention, there are organizations designed to help you get back on track.

If you would like to start off the new year in more control of your finances, the six part series "Taking Control Of Your Money" can help you do just that.

To help you determine if you need assistance, or can simply improve your situation, answer the following questions:

1. You charge day-to-day expenses, such as groceries or health and beauty aids, because you don't have the money to pay for them.

2. You postponed paying one bill last month.

3. You have to borrow money to pay such expenses as taxes, insurance premiums, and even loan payments.

4. Creditors are demanding payment of overdue bills by telephone or letter.

5. You don't know exactly how much income you have.

6. Your credit payments amount to more than one-fifth (20 percent) of your take-home pay after the rent or mortgage is paid.

Total "yes" answers: Score-3 or more "yeses"— in trouble! Get reliable professional help now. 2 "yeses" — trouble spots. Heading for financial problems. Look at present financial situation. Start self-help. 0 "yeses" — gold star! Financial situation looks good.

For more information, or to order the series free of charge, call the Extension Office in your county. Wyoming County residents call 836-3196.

Busy Kids At Farm Show 2001

Central Pennsylvania Rodeo Princess Kelsey Landolf hands out literature and autographs photographs during the Farm Show. The seven-year-old needed to excel in written and riding competitions to be selected princess.

Some kids like to pretend they are part of the display.

Shanita Schrock, 9, said the "bird show" is her favorite activity at the Farm Show. Shanita is the daughter of Maynard and Trish Schrock of Grantsville, Md.

In preparation for the Junior Aryshire Show, David Maulfair, 10, cleans the ears of his Ayrshire calf, Gittie. This is the second year of showing, but The Maulfairs from Jonestown have been competing for years.

Kourtnee Neely, 4, gets up close and personal with a friendly hog at the Farm Show. She is the daughter of Jeff Neely, Harrisburg. Friday was the open swine show and Monday was the junior market swine show.

After completing an apple maze and crossword puzzles, these three participants collect a bag of apples during the activities interspersed with the Apple Pie competition. David Kintzer, 5, son of Patty and Ronald Kintzer of Centerport; Amanda Mellon, 6, daughter of Christina Mellon of Lower Bucks, and Lance Carrier, 3, son of Jeff and Jackie of Brookville.

Make it Milk

Ida's Notebook

by

Ida Risser

In past years, I've written an article about each of my children. Today I'll write about one of my sisters.

My sister Mazie was named for our mother. In the winter of 1934-1935, our family was afflicted with Scarlet Fever. And, I do mean "afflicted" as five of my sisters were very ill at the same time. However, we all had to stay home from school for about six weeks.

One child lost her hearing, and Mazie got rheumatic fever which affects the joints and heart valves. Due to her hip becoming dislocated, she had years of trouble as one leg had to be broken to try and make it as long as the other.

Sixty years ago this week, Mazie died after a two-week about with a cold. My parents awakened me in the middle of the night to give me the news. I believe that today she could have been helped and would still be living.

Despite her handicap, Mazie walked almost a mile on crutches to school. She did her share of chores and was a loving 12-year-old child with beautiful big brown eyes.

After her death, my parents began to treat me like an adult, which I was. I was asked to order flowers, and I was asked to notify relatives as we had no phone. Also, the beautiful blue velvet dress that we bought for her was my choice.

It is a sad occurrence when an old person dies, but it is much harder to lose a young person. They should have their whole life before them, but it is cut short by illness or accident. Hopefully, it will have some good effect on those who are left behind.

Do's And Don't's For Perennial Dieters

If you've ended the year with an extra 10 pounds and more guilt than ever about your weight, it's time to reexamine your self-talk, as well as your eating habits. Here are some tips on correcting the 10 biggest mistakes dieters make.

1. Do set realistic goals. Don't set yourself up for failure. Break your efforts into manageable steps. Concentrate on changing habits, rather than on reducing pounds.

2. Do expect slow progress. Don't lose patience. The safest longest-lasting weight loss is achieved gradually, at the rate of one to two pounds a week. Gradual weight loss allows your body to adjust physically and mentally to the new you.

3. Do get a move on. Don't live by food alone. The more energy you burn through exercise, the more fat you'll liberate. Plus, you feel better when you're active.

4. Do fight boredom with variety. Don't eat the same foods every day. Go for flavor with spices rather than with fat. Tantalize your taste buds with garlic and onions. Try salsa on baked potatoes in place of sour cream.

5. Do remember: there are no forbidden foods. Don't classify foods as good or bad. Deprivation leads to obsession, the "mother" of bingeing. Allow all foods on your okay list. The key words are moderation and variety.

6. Do recognize emotional triggers. Don't ignore the stresses that push your buttons and make you want to find solace in food. Once you recognize and accept these triggers, find nonfood ways to soothe your emotions. A brisk walk or bubble bath can do wonders for frazzled nerves.

7. Do celebrate! But, don't make the reward food. Celebrate yourself, your family and friends, your work, your life. Plan rewards for weight maintenance as well as weight loss.

8. Do eat more than once a day. Don't hoard your calories for dinner. Spreading calories out makes your metabolism chug all day, burning them off. Make sure your food plan works for the demands on your life. This may mean six small meals or three squares per day. If you're so busy that you can only fit in one meal a day, pack along nutritious snacks to keep you going until dinner.

9. Do commit to yourself. Don't diet for approval. Dieting for another sets you up for failure, especially when their applause isn't as loud as you'd hoped.

10. Do remember everything wonderful about you exists no matter what size you are. While a diet can improve your health and appearance, it won't transform the circumstances of your life. It may, however, help you build the psychological skills and self-esteem you need to tackle troublesome issues.

Exercise Is Important To Achieving Your Goals

Regular exercise, defined as a total of 20 to 30 minutes of exercise at least three times a week, can help increase cardiovascular health, lung capacity, and, muscle strength and flexibility while decreasing blood pressure, and risk of heart disease, obesity, stroke, and non-insulin dependent diabetes. Regular exercise can also relieve stress and contribute to a positive mental attitude.

Some ideas for turning physical activity into a lifestyle habit are:

- Use stairs rather than the elevator.
- Walk rather than drive whenever possible. This could include parking at the outskirts of store parking lot rather than trying to park as close as possible.
- Take stretch breaks during the day. Any bending and reaching is better than just sitting or gliding on a chair with wheels.
- Take a walk at lunch or give the baby a daily ride in the stroller. Let older kids come along. Physically active kids are more likely to be active adults.
- Plan weekly exercise with friends to pair physical activity with social contact and give yourself accountability and 'moral support.'
- Find activities that you like and can fit into your schedule. Choosing among a variety of activities can help keep you from getting bored.

Kimberton Representative Bakes Top Chocolate Cake

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — According to judges of the Greatest Chocolate Cake Contest, "It's a lot tougher (to select a winner) than past years and better quality every year."

This year's winner at the Pennsylvania Farm Show contest Cindy Bruce of West Chester had placed second a few years ago. She was ecstatic.

"It's Kimberton's first win," Cindy said of the fair where she qualified to enter the state competition. In addition to basking in the honor, Cindy anticipates enjoying the prize, a two-night stay for four at the Hershey Lodge and Convention Center, Hershey.

Cindy had combined several recipes to produce her four layer Chocolate Layer Cake and Buttercream Duet with Pralined Almonds.

Second place and $50 went to Carol Lee, Chambersburg. The state competition was a first time ent for the Franklin County Fair winner. Her Double Chocolate Raspberry Supreme entry featured a white chocolate filling and sour cream chocolate frosting.

Third place and $35 was claimed by Tammy Smith, Ephrata, who had placed first at the Denver Fair. Her original Chocolate Caramel Delight was decorated in a basket weave pattern with chocolate roses spilling from the top.

Persistence paid off for Tammy, who said, "I've been entering 13 years and this is the first time I placed at the state level."

CHOCOLATE LAYER CAKE AND BUTTERCREAM DUET WITH PRALINED ALMONDS

Layer Cake:

- 3-ounces special dark chocolate, finely chopped
- 1½ cups hot brewed coffee
- 3 cups sugar
- 2½ cups all-purpose flour
- 1½ cups baking cocoa
- 2 teaspoons baking soda
- ¾ teaspoon baking powder
- 1¼ teaspoons salt
- 3 large eggs
- ¼ cup vegetable oil
- 1½ cups well-shaken buttermilk
- ¾ teaspoon vanilla

Preheat oven to 300 degrees and grease two 10-inch cake pans. Line bottoms with rounds of wax paper and grease paper. Finely chop chocolate and combine in bowl with hot coffee. Let mixture stand, stirring occasionally, until chocolate is melted and mixture is smooth.

Into a large bowl, sift together sugar, flour, cocoa powder, baking soda, baking powder, and salt. In another large bowl with an electric mixer beat eggs until thickened slightly and lemon colored.

Slowly add oil, buttermilk, vanilla, and melted chocolate mixture to eggs, beating until combined well. Add sugar mixture and beat on medium speed until just combined well. Divide batter between pans and bake in middle of oven until a tester inserted in center comes out clean, one hour to one hour and 10 minutes. (If using smaller pans, only fill two-thirds full).

Cool layers completely in pans on racks. Run a thin knife around edges of pans and invert layers onto racks. Carefully remove wax paper and cool layers completely. Cake layers may be made one day ahead and kept, wrapped well in plastic wrap, at room temperature.

Almond Buttercream Frosting:

- ½ cup granulated sugar
- 2 tablespoons all-purpose flour
- 6 egg yolks
- 1½ cups milk
- 6 ounces chopped white baking bar
- 1½ teaspoons vanilla
- ½ teaspoon almond extract
- 2 sticks softened butter

In a medium mixing bowl combine granulated sugar and flour; add the egg yolks. Beat mixture with a wire whisk until combined; set aside. In a heavy, medium saucepan, heat milk over medium heat just to boiling. Remove from heat. Gradually beat hot milk into egg mixture with wire whisk; return entire mixture to saucepan. Cook over medium heat until bubbly, whisking constantly. Cook 2 minutes more. Remove from heat. Add chopped white baking bar, vanilla, and almond extracts. Let stand one minute; stir until smooth. Transfer mixture to bowl. Cover surface with plastic wrap to prevent skin from forming, cool to room temperature. In a medium mixing bowl, beat softened butter on medium to high speed until fluffy. Add cooled baking bar mixture, one-fourth at a time, beating on low speed after each addition until blended.

Chocolate Buttercream Filling:

- 12-ounce package semisweet chocolate chips
- 3 egg whites
- 1⅓ cups superfine granulated sugar
- 6 sticks butter, room temperature
- 1 teaspoon vanilla

In a double boiler, melt chocolate, remove from boiler, and put aside. In the double boiler, place the 3 egg whites and sugar and cook over medium heat until warm to the touch and sugar is dissolved. Place mixture in large mixing bowl and beat until cool. Add melted chocolate. When cool, add butter and vanilla. Mix until fluffy.

Pralined Almonds:

- ⅓ cup water
- ¼ cup granulated sugar
- 2 cups whole almonds (untoasted)
- 1 tablespoon butter

In a medium saucepan, heat water and the sugar until the temperature reaches 248 degrees on a candy thermometer. Remove the pan from heat and stir in almonds. Continue to stir until the sugar crystallizes and appears sandy. Return the pan to stovetop and cook the almonds over low heat, stirring constantly with heat-proof utensil until the crystallized sugar liquefies and coats the nuts. Takes about 10 minutes. Don't overcook at this point or you'll risk burning the nuts. Remove the pan from heat and stir in butter. Spread the nuts on a baking sheet to cool. Once cool, store in an airtight container for up to two weeks. Yield: about 3½ cups nuts.

For this cake, place 1½ cups pralined almonds in a zip bag and crush with a heavy rolling pin.

To assemble cake:

Fill between completely cooled layers with chocolate butter cream sprinkled with crushed pralined almonds. Frost with almond buttercream frosting. Garnish with shavings of Hershey's Special Dark Chocolate, as desired.

DOUBLE CHOCOLATE RASPBERRY SUPREME

- 2 cups flour
- 2 cups sour cream
- ¼ cup butter
- 1¼ teaspoons baking soda
- ½ teaspoon baking powder

White Chocolate Filling (recipe follows)

- 2 eggs
- ¼ cup shortening
- 1½ teaspoon vanilla
- 2 tablespoons raspberry liqueur in 1 cup minus 2 tablespoons water

Sour Cream Chocolate Frosting (recipe follows)

- 1½ cups sugar
- ¼ cup European Dutch Process Cocoa
- 1 teaspoon salt

Raspberry Puree (recipe follows)

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Grease and flour two 9-inch cake pans. Beat all ingredients in large bowl at medium speed about 30 seconds, scraping bowl, until blended. Beat on high speed 3 minutes, scraping bowl occasionally. Pour into prepared pans. Bake 25-30 minutes. Cool 10 minutes. Remove from pans. While cooling, prepare raspberry puree, white chocolate filling, and sour cream chocolate frosting.

Raspberry Puree

Place 2 12-ounce packages thawed raspberries in blender container. Cover and blend on high speed until smooth. Strain.

White Chocolate Filling

- 1 cup softened butter
- 8-ounces white baking chocolate, melted, cooled
- ¼ cup powdered sugar
- ¼ teaspoon vanilla

Beat butter and powdered sugar in small bowl on medium speed until light and fluffy. Beat in remaining ingredients until smooth.

Sour Cream Chocolate Frosting:

- ¼ cup sour cream
- 2 ounces unsweetened chocolate, melted, cooled
- 2 teaspoons vanilla
- ½ cup butter and 1 tablespoon shortening
- ½ cup European Style Cocoa
- 5½ cups powdered sugar

Mix sour cream, butter, shortening, chocolate, cocoa, and vanilla. Stir in powdered sugar; beat just until frosting is smooth and of spreading consistency.

Cake Assembly:

Cut each cooled layer in half horizontally. Place one layer on cake plate; spread with one-third white chocolate filling. Make ¼-inch deep ring in filling one-inch from edge of cake. Make another ¼-inch deep ring in filling one-inch inside outer ring. Fill ring indentations with raspberry puree. Repeat with two more layers. Place top layer on cake. Frost sides and top of cake with Sour Cream Chocolate Frosting. Decorate.

CHOCOLATE CARAMEL DELIGHT

Cake:

- 1 cup unsweetened cocoa
- 1¼ cups boiling water
- 2¼ cups flour
- 1¼ cups granulated sugar
- 1½ teaspoons baking powder
- 1½ teaspoons baking soda
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ½ cup milk
- ½ cup oil
- 2 teaspoons vanilla extract
- 4 egg yolks
- 4 egg whites
- ¼ cup granulated sugar

Frosting:

- 40 caramels, unwrapped
- ¼ cup milk
- ½ stick butter
- ½ cup butter
- ½ cup shortening
- 2 teaspoons vanilla extract
- 6 cups sifted powdered sugar

Garnish:

Garnish with chocolate shavings or Chocolate Buttercream:

- 1 stick butter
- ½ cup shortening
- ¾ cup baking cocoa
- 4 cups sifted powdered sugar
- 2-4 tablespoons milk for consistency

For the cake, in a small bowl, combine cocoa and boiling water. Stir until smooth and set aside to cool. In medium bowl, sift together flour, sugar, and baking powder; baking soda, and salt. In mixing bowl, combine milk, oil, vanilla, and egg yolks, stir on low to combine.

Preheat oven to 350 degrees, grease bottoms only of two 9-inch round cake pans and line the bottoms with parchment circles or waxed paper circles. Set aside.

Add dry ingredients to the milk and oil mixture and stir on low to combine. Scrape bowl. Mix on medium for 2 minutes. Meanwhile, whip the egg whites with the granulated sugar until it forms a soft peak. Stir the cocoa mixture into the milk and flour mixture, when combined, fold in egg whites. Immediately turn into cake pans, divide batter evenly between them.

Bake cakes for 30 minutes or until tops are firm and if you like, a knife poked in center comes out clean. Cool in pans until room temperature, about 30 minutes. To remove from pans, run a butter knife around edge of pan and then turn out onto cooling racks. Be sure they have cooled completely before using the cake layers.

Frosting:

Combine in a saucepan, caramels, milk, and ½ stick butter. Melt on low, stir constantly until smooth. Set aside to cool.

When caramel is cool, combine ½ cup butter and ½ cup shortening in a mixing bowl and beat until smooth. Add cooled caramel and beat until smooth. Stir in vanilla and powdered sugar until light and fluffy.

For the chocolate buttercream (for decoration):

In a mixing bowl, combine butter and shortening, beat until smooth, add the cocoa and half of the powdered sugar. Cream for several minutes, then add remaining powdered sugar and adjust the consistency with the milk if needed. Use this buttercream immediately for roses and decorations.

To finish the cakes:

Slice the cake layers horizontally to make four cake layers. Fill with frosting and frost on outside. Form basketweave pattern around sides of cake and pipe a simple rope border. Use dark chocolate buttercream for contrast for roses and flowers on the top of the cake. Keep in a cool place until serving. Serves 12-14.

In First Try, 13-Year-Old Bakes Greatest Chocolate Bars

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — "It's a tough competition. We really had to work this year," said Chris Flick, a judge for the Greatest Chocolate Bar and Cookie Contest.

Any of the first three top placings could have been a first-place winner, Flick said of the 58 entries in the annual contest conducted on the opening day of the Pennsylvania Farm Show.

The five judges decided that first place and a two-night stay for four at the Hershey Lodge and Convention Center should go to 13-year-old Amanda Judy, Clinton Co. Her Marbled Double Chocolate Cheesecake Bars tasted "outstanding" according to Flick.

Although Amanda has been cooking for four years, this was the first year she entered the contest, which required her to place first at a local fair before being eligible to enter the state competition.

Amanda is the daughter of Gordon and Jane Judy and has a sister Melanie to whom she often serves her culinary treats.

Taking second place was Katie Myers, Dallastown. Katie had placed first in the same contest two years ago. This year she tried a peanut butter cream version to win first at Lebanon Area Fair in order to qualify.

Third place went to Stacy Kite, Jefferson County, for Peppermint Patty Brownies.

MARBLED DOUBLE CHOCOLATE CHEESECAKE BARS
First Place

½ cup butter, softened
1 cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup all-purpose flour
¼ cup baking cocoa
2 packages 8-ounces each cream cheese, softened
2 eggs
2 teaspoons vanilla extract
½ cup Hershey's Chocolate Shoppe Topping, room temperature
¼ cup semi-sweet chocolate chips, melted
16 Hershey Kisses or Hugs (for garnish)

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Line 8- or 9-inch square baking pan with aluminum foil. Extend foil over sides of pan.

In a small mixing bowl, beat butter, ½ cup sugar, and salt until smooth.

In a separate bowl, stir flour and cocoa together. Slowly add flour and cocoa mixture to butter mixture. Beat until soft dough is formed. Press dough into bottom of baking pan.

Beat cream cheese and ½ cup sugar until smooth. Add eggs and vanilla. Blend well.

Remove 1 cup cream cheese batter into another pan. Set aside remaining cream cheese batter.

Add ½ cup chocolate topping to the 1 cup cream cheese batter, stirring well until blended. Pour only one cup of chocolate batter over dough. Spread with spatula until even. Set aside remaining chocolate batter.

Melt semi-sweet chocolate chips in microwave-safe bowl. Recommend 2-3 minutes at 40 percent powder. Stir frequently to prevent scorching. Add melted morsels tot the remaining chocolate batter that is in bowl. Stir very well.

Drop remaining cream cheese batter (¼ cup at a time) into the baking dish. Spread evenly with a spatula. Be careful not to mix layers together.

Drop by tablespoonful on the chocolate batter with melted morsels into the baking dish. Gently swirl with a knife or a spatula for a marbled effect. Bake 35-40 minutes or until cheese cake is firm and the top is slightly rounded. Cool completely in baking pan on wire rack. Refrigerate. To serve, lift from pan using the foil edges as handles. Cut into squares and garnish with Kisses or Hugs.

Flakey Crusts, Dark Filling Define Shoo-Fly Pie Contest

MICHELLE RANCK
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Lancaster County, understandably, remains king of the shoo-fly pie world.

Pie number 10, with its macadamia and pecan nut topping, distinguished itself to the five judges at the third annual Shoo-fly Pie Contest.

Debra Martin of Conestoga, Lancaster County won the contest for the third year. She also won this year's apple pie contest at the Farm Show.

Martin actually prefers vanilla and pecan pie to shoo-fly pie, which inspired her original recipe.

"I made this early this morning," said Martin. This year's winning recipe was a combination of the two winning recipes from previous years, plus small adjustments. The addition of vanilla also helps to give the pie distinctive flavor, said Martin.

"I baked this pie in a glass pan so it would cook faster," said Martin.

Faith Hostetter, Lancaster, took home second place. According to David Hostetter, his wife began making shoo-fly pies because of his affinity for the pie. The recipe came from a dear friend, said Hostetter.

Brenda Decker, Bellwood, Blair County, won third place.

Entries were up from last year in the open contest. In its third year, the contest attracted 39 pie entries. Golden Barrel Products sponsored the event and awards.

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — "We are doing a lot right, but I have some concerns," Catherine Schott told members of the Pennsylvania Society of Farm Women.

"Despite adding 39 new members this past year, we lost 78 from death — and that is the cause of my fear," Catherine said.

About 210 members of its 2,373 membership gathered for the Society's 82nd annual convention on Monday to review the activities of the individual county societies that make up the larger state organization.

Because the cause of declining membership is from members who are aging, younger members must be recruited. But many younger women are already overloaded with commitments to family and careers. However, Dauphin County has been successful in forming a younger group mostly made up of the daughters and granddaughters of charter members.

"Regardless of age, we care about those in all circles of life, the beginning, middle, and end," said Betty Etzweiler, president of the Dauphin County Society.

York County was presented with a $50 award for increasing membership by nine members and Greene County received a $25 award for increasing by two members.

Although most of the members of the Society are retirement age, they continue to provide astounding services in the communities in which they live. Reports revealed that members gave away thousands of dollars to community organizations and the needy.

Secretary of Agriculture Samuel Hayes complimented members for their role in providing good strong farm families in the Commonwealth. "You have stood beside the farmer, and in some cases, you are the farmer," he said.

"You provide good thinking and commonsense. We need to hear your voice (on legislative issues)," Hayes said.

Naomi Bupp reported that profits from cookbooks sales enabled the state organization to award 17 $1,000 scholarships to college students. After 10 years, sales continue and recently a reorder was placed for 1,000 more cookbooks.

A memorial service was held for 78 members who passed away during the year 2000.

Numerous county and committee reports were presented.

Members elected Ann Diller as treasurer and Treva Whorl as a director for the state organization. Ann, a member of Lancaster Society 22 for 48 years, has served as president and vice president of her society and also as county-wide president. At Lampeter Church of the Brethren, Ann serves as Sunday school teacher, choir member, and editor of her church newsletter. She plays violin in the Lancaster Seniors Orchestra. she enjoys spending time with her husband, four sons and their spouses, 11 grandsons, and one granddaughter.

Treva is a charter member of York Society 18, where she has served as president, secretary, and treasurer. She also is a former president and secretary of the county society. Treva operates her own beauty shop. She and her husband Glen have two sons, two daughters, and seven grandchildren.

At Mount Zion UMC, Treva is a Sunday school teacher, choir director, delegate to annual conference. She and her husband also served as missionaries to Alaska for three summers.

As a project, Farm Women members have undertaken ways to feed the hungry. In addition to community projects, the state organization in keeping with the cause donated centerpieces to the South Central Pennsylvania Food Bank. The centerpieces were baskets overflowing with canned food.

"Hunger takes many shapes," said Florence Vaitl, state director. Food, clothing, and shelter are a great need that requires people helping others. A demonstration of a people who seek to fill this need is an organization called the Mennonite Disaster Service.

Lowell Detweiler, author of "The Hammer Rings Hope," explained the purpose and work of the Mennonite Disaster Service, which was organized 50 years ago to help in the cleanup and repair of disasters caused by tornadoes, floods, and hurricanes.

"We can't do everything, but we can do something," Detweiler said of participants' willingness to help.

A special ensemble from the Mechanicsburg Area School District provided entertainment.

Cakes Sweeten Farm Show Competitions

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The inaugural year for the Pineapple Upside Down Cake Contest was a sweet one for Lucille Gaul, Reynoldsville.

Gaul took home first place and $500 from the contest. She is the originator of her winning recipe.

"I'm always putting recipes together. I will lay out three or four cookbooks and say, 'I like this one,' or 'I like this ingredient.'" Gaul also does a small amount of custom-baking over the holiays.

The pineapple upside-down cake, however, is a recent addition to Gaul's baking repetoire. "I made half a dozen or so before," she said. The cake which took home first was actually the second round for Gaul's Farm Show entry, as she ended up making two cakes for the contest. "The first one I did in a two-piece pan and the foil got a hole in and all the goodies ran out. I had to make another. I was glad I had time — I did this late last night."

Second place winner Barbara Noye, Bellwood, Blair County, plans to contribute the prize money to her daughter, who recently purchased red gilts at the Farm Show.

The recipe is "the same one I always use, the recipe is out of a cookbook," said Noye, who also contributed an entry to the apple pie contest.

Noye almost didn't enter the contest, as said she was too tired the night before from baking the apple pie, which she also entered in a Farm Show contest. She ended up making the cake at the last minute and putting it, still hot, into the car for the trip to Harrisburg.

A collector of cookbooks, Noye estimates she has an assembly of 100 books.

"But I only use the Grange cookbooks," she said. "They have the best recipes."

She has baked close to 100 cakes over the years to take to picnics or her family's horse shows.

A rookie to baking contests, Rachel Jones Williams of Harrisburg, Dauphin County, won third place. She often takes her baked confections to work, which led to her reputation in the workplace. Her coworkers helped to coerce her into entering her famous cake into the event, her first baking contest.

"On one day I got 12 calls to see if I was going to enter the contest," she said.

A legal assistant at Pennsylvania Higher education Assistance Association, she used her mother's recipe.

"There is nothing pineapple in the cake batter itself, so the cake batter tastes very different from the the topping itself," she said.

According to Gerri Moore, family living coordinator, the cakes must be made from scratch instead of commercial mixes. First prize was $500, second place $100, and third place $50.

Fifty-one cakes were entered in the open competition and arrived the afternoon of the competition. The five judges judged 10 cakes each. Ten cakes then advanced to semifinals.

Following the event the cakes were cut into pieces and offered to the audience for their own testing and approval.

Judges included Sherman Allen, auctioneer; Delores McKee, who formerly ran foodservice for Allentown School District; Linda McKee, Catasauqua; Sue Samson, New Cumberland, from "Lion's Den Catering;" and Fred Trump, manager, Bloomsburg fair.

Health Craft sponsored the event and awards.

The judges of the cake contest selected winning recipes on overall appearance, consistency, flavor, moistness, texture, and aroma.

Retiree 'Works' at Restoring Antique Phonographs and Jukeboxes

GAIL STROCK
Mifflin Co. Correspondent

BURNHAM (Mifflin Co.) — Alvin Heckard of Burnham, Mifflin County, has a hand in keeping music alive — two hands, actually, and a few tools and spare parts.

A "retired" tinkerer by trade, Alvin's interest in mechanical things began with his father's belief that if something breaks, fix it. That led to Alvin fixing things for friends and that led to owning a television repair business for 25 years.

Alvin stands in a huge room in the basement of a schoolhouse he owns that was converted into apartments. This room, with floor-to-ceiling shelves, houses his personal collection of more than 70 phonographs, plus parts, pieces, and phonographs awaiting repair.

"I began buying phonographs, parts, and pieces many years ago. I have the room, so I just stored them," Alvin said.

"Edison made the first phonograph in 1877. It was patented in 1878. He recorded on tinfoil," Alvin explains.

"There were three big companies Edison, Columbia, and Victor." Up until 1906, Edison used a banner-typed logo on the side of the phonograph that identified the model in the center of the logo. After 1906, just the Edison name was printed on the side of the phonograph. Between 1899 to 1929, the Edison models included the Gem, Standard, Fireside, Home, Triumph, Concert, and Opera, ranging from the least expensive Gem to the top-of-the-line Opera.

The Gem sold for $7.50 while the Opera sold for $85.

"Back then, people made $1 a day. That's why there are so many Standards."

Alvin points to phonographs made by other manufacturers Aretino, Standard Model A, and Zon-o-phone. These machines only played the right record for the right machine. Each manufacturer made records or cylinders with different-sized holes.

Jukeboxes

"People think the first jukebox was the 1933 Debutante made by Wurlitzer, but in the late 1800s, some guys built some with cylinder records. They're really rare and sell between $30,000 to $40,000. The Debutante was a test model made in 1933. Production runs began in 1934.

According to Alvin, the old jukeboxes are getting harder and harder to find. The Wurlitzer jukeboxes built between 1946 and 1947 were a popular machine, so there are more of them around for parts.

Alvin uses a separate basement room to work on the 23 jukeboxes he owns. As he plugs one in, the beautifully colored lights shine brightly in the dingy basement. He slips a quarter into the slot and selects "Rock Around The Clock" by Bill Haley on a 78 rpm record.

"A lot of companies made conversion kits to play 45 speeds. I convert them back to 78s," Alvin said.

As the jukebox warms, the oil-filled tubes between the colorful lighting begin to bubble.

"In the few original jukeboxes around, the plastic is shrunk. A couple of companies make reproduction parts, and I have machines to use for parts I can't find. I have no interest in modern jukebox reproductions. The reproductions are made for 45s or compact discs (CDs). These old jukeboxes hold 24 records. With all the CDs in the modern jukeboxes, you'd never be able to listen to them all in one day!

"What hurts around here (in selling jukeboxes and furniture) is trucking and shipping requirements. Local trucking companies need to load a jukebox or piece of furniture on a truck with other things such as steel. There are guys in other parts of the country who travel just to deliver these types of things.

"I bought one jukebox in Georgia, and in two months they delivered it. They loop through the United States picking up and delivering things like slot machines, player pianos, and jukeboxes."

The basement also houses Alvin and partner Troy Snook's antique furniture repair and restoration business, called H & S Antiques. They also maintain a booth at Dairyland Antiques in Reedsville.

"I just like anything mechanical. I get something fixed, then I lose interest. I have more fun working on them," Andy said of his hobby.

As this 1946 or 1947 Wurlitzer jukebox warms up, bubbles rise through thin tubes between the lights. Alvin Heckard of Burnham repairs his jukeboxes to their original state they need a quarter to operate. So far he's saved hundreds of dollars simply by slipping a quarter in a jukebox every now and then.

Hesston Balers Model 4755

The new Hesston® 4755 creates a half-ton bale that's perfect for either transporting or feeding to your own stock

Wet or dry?

The 4755 easily handles both In fact, you can bale high-moisture crops and seal in high feed values without any equipment modifications

Plus, an optional bale ejector and roller chute let you discharge the last bale at the end of each day

Unmatched consistency.

Since one charge makes one flake, you get unmatched bale consistency regardless of the crop or ground speed

That's the Hesston difference, and it's backed by 20 years of field experience

Stop by today and check out the 4755 and its new labor-saving 4720 Bale Accumulator

Youth Wood Carving Contest For 2002 Farm Show

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Three-time world champion woodcarver Sean Casey announced the 2002 State Woodcarving Championship at the 85th Pennsylvania State Farm Show.

Already, hundreds of youth and a number of school districts have signed up for the event, which is to be conducted next year at the Farm Show.

The 2002 State Woodcarving Contest is open to all school age children in Pennsylvania. There is no limit on the number of carvings submitted in competition, and items entered in the competition must be made within a year of the actual competition.

The carvings will remain on display throughout the week of the Farm Show. Dimensions of submissions are limited to 20-inches by 24-inches. Children who are in kindergarten to fourth grade may only submit carvings from soap. There are separate categories for fifth to eighth graders and ninth to twelfth graders.

Each of these categories must create carvings from wood, and at least 90 percent of carvings should be made of wood or wood products. No mirrors, motors, plastic or rubber products are allowed.

Glass eyes used for wildlife carvings are allowed. Categories according to type of carving are as follows: farm animals, animals in general, abstract, fish-aquatic life-turtles-snakes-reptiles, relief carving, birds, ducks, caricatures, farm equipment, and miscellaneous.

The proposal for the contest came from Sean Casey of Lewisberry, who, for the past four years, has exhibited his award-winning carvings at the Farm Show.

Casey has been a professional decorative woodcarver for 10 years, but has practiced the art since childhood. Each year at the Farm Show, Casey has shown his carvings to be judged in the world woodcarving championship.

This past April, Casey retired from the world championship and he was asked to develop another way to incorporate woodcarving in the Farm Show. With the assistance of woodcarvers Mike and Jane Reed of Harrisburg, and Secretary Sam Hayes, the first youth woodcarving contest was established. This contest hopes to draw boys and girls to woodcarving, which, according to Casey, is an art typically performed by adults and seniors.

Sign-ups for the competition will continue throughout the week of the Farm Show, but submissions can also be made by mail. To sign up, send the name, address, school currently attended, grade, and category of interest of the student to Sean Casey, 38 Alfred Drive, Lewisberry, PA 17339. Through Casey students can get advise on woodcarving, and valuable information about free classes students can attend in their area.

There is a $5 parking fee per vehicle in the Farm Show parking lot, located along Cameron Street, just off Interstate 81. Overflow parking is available at Harrisburg Area Community College, with shuttle bus service to the Main Exhibition Building provided for 75 cents.

Twin-Line® Planters

KINZE's Exclusive Rotating In-Line Transport: the only system that offers you narrow transport on large planters equipped with narrow row Interplant® or fertilizer options As narrow as most tractor duals

The unique, patented hydraulic "lift & rotate" system features a rugged, heavy-duty stainless steel clad center post (on both 3500 and 3600 models) which rotates on large tapered bearings seated at the base of the post (Model 3400 uses a parallel linkage system with dual lift cylinders)

- UHMW plastic pads glide up and down against the smoothly machined surface Absolutely no lubrication is required (3500 and 3600)
- A self-contained counter-balance valve in the lift cylinder provides additional safety when the planter is in the raised position The planter will not lower without hydraulic pressure from the tractor (3400 and 3500)
- A Spring-loaded latch/hook secures the planter while it's in the fully raised position by locking the toolbar in place (3600)

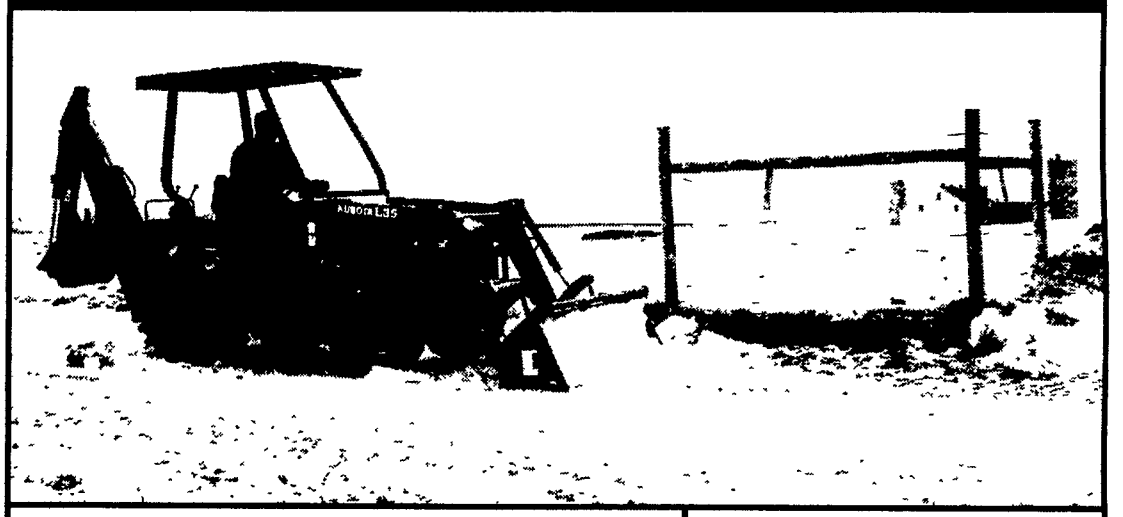
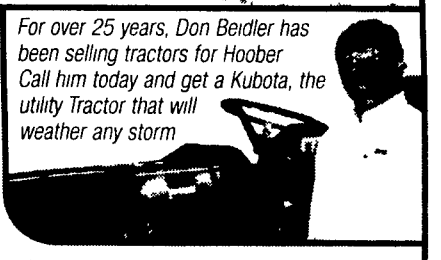
Hoober & Kubota... We'll Weather Any Storm



For over 25 years, Don Beidler has been selling tractors for Hoober Call him today and get a Kubota, the utility Tractor that will weather any storm



Hoober is pleased to offer Kubota's powerful line up of versatile, compact tractors that are perfect for landscaping, nursery, construction, small farm chores, and yes, plowing snow! The strength and durability of a Kubota utility tractor equipped with a high-performance loader will handle a multitude of tasks

These tractors are designed for maximum productivity, with more hydraulic capacity, high performance power steering and increased engine horsepower. The loader offers a precise balance between easy operation and powerful lifting force, and the operation of the loader requires the use of only a single lever to raise or lower the loader boom, or to dump or rollback the bucket

(Tractor may be used in nice weather too.)

Krause 7400 Discs...
Engineered for the Way You Farm

Why Should You Choose The New Krause 7400 Rockflex for Your Next Disc?

1 Double Offset Designed Frame
The 7400's strength starts with a rugged 5' x 7' mainframe that comes complete with a three-year warranty. The double offset gang design provides a level-field finish, the "trademark" of a Krause disc.

2 Rockflex Bearing Arms
New, heavier Rockflex bearing arms feature a full 1¼" thick by 2½" wide standard to flex over the toughest obstacles. These bearing arms are heat treated for durability.

3 Heavy-Duty Walking Tandem
Krause's heavy-duty walking tandem system smooths out rough fields, and rough roads when transporting. This feature gives you more precise depth control and more stable discing.

4 Self-Leveling Hitch
The self-leveling hitch on the Krause 7400 features an adjustable leveling link for fore to aft leveling changes. Self-leveling mechanism is spring cushioned for protection.

5 Rigid Scrapers
Five inch wide rigid scrapers are heat treated and hot formed from the same high carbon steel we use in our disc blades. The result is an extremely strong and efficient scraper that resists wear.

6 Gang Bearings
Krause SuperSeal regreasable gang bearings are as tough and durable as the discs they come on. They are protected in a ductile cast iron holder and encased in a heavy rubber boot to absorb shock.

7 Wing Fold Hinges
Massive 1½" x 15' hinge bolts on the Krause 7400 distribute folding forces over a wide area, not concentrating them in a narrow hinge like some competitive designs.

8 Forward Action Wing Wheels
The forward action wing wheels rotate close to the front gangs for precise depth control on the Krause 7400. This design limits the need for optional front gauge wheels that are necessary on other brands.

9 Heavy Cast Spools
The heavy cast spools multiply the strength of the Krause disc gang, making it the strongest in the industry. The design supports the disc blade more positively without creating a "stress line" like competitive designs.

GEHL

YOUR LIVESTOCK IMPLEMENT LINE

BETTER NUTRITION & PEAK FORAGE HARVESTING CAPACITY!

6, 7, & 9 Ft. Hay Pickup Attachment Available

Increase Production & Profits with a Gehl Crop Processor™ Better feed starts with better harvesting. That's what you get with a Gehl crop processing forage harvester. First to put crop-processing rolls in a pull-type forage harvester, Gehl remains the leader with the original Model 1275 and the all-new Model 1075.

- HIGH-SPEED GROOVED ROLLS crack kernels, break-up the cob and shred stalk material
- BENEFITS include increased milk production and improved herd health.
- MODEL 1275 is today's top-capacity pull-type forage harvester, handling up to 300 PTO horsepower.
- NEW MODEL 1075 handles up to 225 PTO horsepower
- EXCLUSIVE AUTOMAX™ LOAD MANAGEMENTS SYSTEM helps boost capacity

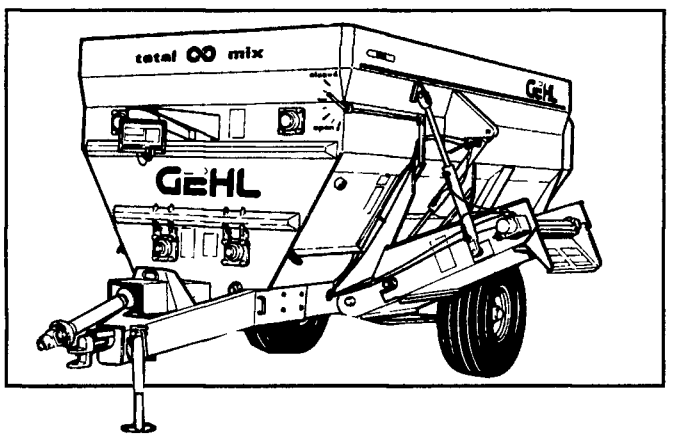
TMR "Total Mix" Mixer Feeders



"Total Mix" TMR mixer feeders let you mix more long-stemmed hay into your ration - up to 30% by weight depending on hay type and moisture content.

- "Hay - slicer auger" - Incorporates knife assemblies into the two bottom augers.
- Better mixing action - Four-auger design creates a double figure - 8 mixing pattern for fast and complete mixing of all feed ingredients.
- Energy efficient - Planetary drive system requires less horsepower
- Built to last - Patented star couplers absorb shock loads by allowing the bottom augers to flex, providing long service life.
- Five sizes - 150 to 455 cubic feet capacities.

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — A Chester White gilt stood out in several characteristics in the Small Arena at the Farm Show late last week.

According to Al Christian, swine extension specialist at Iowa State University and judge of the 85th Pennsylvania Farm Show bred gilt competition, he noted that although the championship provided the show ring with an "excellent set of females," what stood out was the March class gilt.

He said the market is looking toward hogs that are "lean and have dimension and have excellent underline." Christian chose both March first and second place gilts as champion and reserve, respectively, of the Chester White breed class.

The hog which then became supreme champion of the show was KWF 10 ATP 45-4 (S: KWF19 Austin 97 13-2, D: KWF19 ATP 20-12), shown by Ken Wetzel and family, Rossiter.

When selecting the supreme champion on the opening day of Farm Show, Christian, Ames, Iowa, said, "This is such a long-bodied, well-made Chester White. She moves on good, strong feet and legs and is an extremely shapely individual, particularly across the top. This hog has the look of one that will be around for a long time."

The Wetzels also swept the Hampshire competition.

Christian, coordinator of the swine herd at Iowa State, chose several other breed champions at the show the previous day. Here is a look at each.

Berkshires

Christian noted that in the past few years, the Berkshire breed population has increased "a great deal," he said. The champion, he said, exhibited length of body, soundness, and underlying quality.

The champion was a January gilt, Cor0 Zena Rose (S: WB9 Rosette Prime 3-2, D: Cor8 Zena Lady 18-8), exhibited by Arlie Cornbower, New Freedom.

Reserve was the long-bodied, big-bodied gilt, Christian said, exhibited by Clayton D. Winebark, Rochester Mills. It was the February gilt, L.H.F.O. MS Gold Throttle, due Feb. 20 to Hi Position.

Chester Whites

Christian said the second place March gilt, also shown by the Wetzels, had a "thickness of rump and top" and that the gilt "puts together leanness and structural correctness with width at the rump." The reserve was KWF 10 ATP 62-9 (S: KWF19 Austin 97 13-2, D. KWF19 ATP 27-3).

Durocs

Grand champion Duroc, according to Christian, was as good in its rump as in its leanness, thickness, and squareness, he said.

Clyde McConaughey, Smicksburg, exhibited the champion.

It's those maternal qualities which separate the gilts in the show ring and provide a great way to improve a herd. The Duroc breed champion, CWMO MS Wizard 5-2, due Feb. 4 KJF9 Big Stir 20-12, showcased its "extreme rib and thickness in the loin area," Christian said.

pion, according to Christian. The gilt was long in the rump and through the center portion of the ham, he said.

Reserve, Wetzo MS Gambler 16-6 (S: HP9 HP Kmart 27-6, D: Wetz8 Ms Gambler 19-7), was shown by Ken, James, and Dan Wetzel, Rossiter.

Hampshires

The Wetzel family swept the classes in this breed division.

The champion, Christian said, is a real excellent female. He told the exhibitors to "study her for length and extension and leanness and width," he said, commenting about the gilt's "boldness of frame and muscle she carries."

The champion was a February gilt, Wetzo Mx Nelli (S: KTF8 Walking Tall 56-2, D: RMF7 Mx Nelli 18-10).

The reserve also was an excellent sample of the breed. The gilt was "sound, long, like hogs should look, with those kinds of productive characteristics," Christian said.

The reserve was the second place February gilt, DRW0 Edith, due Feb. 17 to Wetzo Walking Tall 30-6.

Landrace

Christian said the gilt in the show ring that he chose champion exhibited "leanness and length of side and underline and length of neck and cleanness in the throat area," he said.

Champion was exhibited by Grant A. Lazarus III, Germansville, LAG0 Remedy Uni (S: LAG7 Remedy Omar 20-11, D: LAG7 Ms Uni Milkman 13-5).

Reserve was also shown by Lazarus, a March gilt, LAG0 Remedy Omar (S: LAG7 Remedy Omar 20-11, D: LAG7 Finnegans Omar 9-2). Christian said the reserve has a thicker rump and ham than champion, and has some extra "durability and extra thickness of rib," and he enjoyed the gilt's soundness of feet and legs.

Poland Chinas

Todd and Cheryl Bennecoff family, Kutztown, swept the Poland China show.

Christian pointed out that the champion, a January gilt, was "structurally correct in terms of muscling and shape." The champion was Cabo Whinney Pop 2-3, due Feb. 1 to RJMO Authority 11-6.

Reserve was also from the January class, a gilt "with a lot of muscle to her," said Christian.

Reserve was Cabo Whinney Pop 2-6, due Feb. 19 to Wetzo Texoma II 6-4. The reserve's sire was DWT8 Popeye 4-3 and dam was CAB6 Whinney 1-7.

Spotteds

The January gilt, LLBO H&L 6-2 (S: ZSF7 H & L 10-3, D: LLB7 Harwood Corporate 5-2), was shown by Leslie and Lazarus Brothers, Germansville.

Reserve was the March gilt also shown by Leslie and Lazarus Brothers, LLBO Dex (S: DSF7 Dex 28-7, D: LLB8 Blue Moon H&L 4-3).

Yorkshires

The champion gilt of this division, from the February gilt class, was "shapely over top, a deep, broody kind of gilt," Christian said.

The champion was exhibited by Rattlesnake Mt. Farms, Julian, CBHO Jennie (S: NYY9 Total Package 9-6, D: CBH9 Jennie 9-2).

Junior Swine Show: One Exhibitor's First Champion, Another's Swan Song

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — It was the supreme champion exhibitor's first Farm Show grand banner at the junior swine show.

For the reserve champion exhibitor, it was her way of saying goodbye to a decade in the show ring.

Brandon, 14, in the eighth grade in home school, nicknamed his Hampshire homebred crossbred gilt "Daisy," in honor of his favorite dog. Brandon, son of Ken and Janet Winebark, had to wait quite a while for the champion banner, watching his sister Janine win the trophy her first year and win again in 1998.

"We raised it," said Brandon. Ken said the gilt was ¾ Hampshire and, at 270 pounds, won champion heavyweight.

Amy Becker, 19, daughter of Marlin and Nancy Becker, Manheim, will be graduating in a couple of weeks from York Technical Institute, where she will receive an associate's degree in culinary arts and restaurant management.

Amy exhibited a Yorkshire purebred barrow. Though she figured she could get to the sale (having only to place in the top five), she said that she thought anything beyond that would be great.

The 1999 Manheim Central High School graduate also watched as other family members succeeded at Farm Show. Amy's sister Karen won grand champion in 1987. Melissa won in 1988 and 1993 with reserve.

The purebred Yorkshire barrow was obtained from Frank Feeser, Taneytown, Md. Amy did well at Lancaster County fairs this year, winning champion at Denver Fair and reserve at Elizabethtown.

Judge Kim Brock, Stillwater, Okla., was impressed with Brandon Winebark's grand champion as the heavyweight winner. He said it is a really "long, bold gilt, with a big top."

When selecting it as crossbred champion, he called the two belted gilts, including the reserve overall shown by Lori Connelly, the 247-pound light heavyweight champion, the two most impressive in the show ring.

"No matter where you go, folks, these two are going to be in the winner's circle," Brock said.

While Brock called Winebark's hog the most powerful, he was impressed enough with three hogs in the show ring during the supreme championship run. He said he attended a show on a recent Saturday in Oklahoma that had impressive hogs, but the three hogs in the show ring at the Farm Show Complex would "have won that Saturday in Oklahoma," he said.

There were 347 hogs at the show. Following is a list of show placings.

Monroe County Winery Takes Farm Show Wine Award

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Cherry Valley Vineyard, Saylorsburg, has been named best of show at the Fifth Annual Farm Show Wine Competition at the 85th Pennsylvania State Farm Show.

Cherry Valley Vineyard's Raspberry Spumante won the Governor's Cup and a gold medal for best of show honors and was also named best sparkling wine. The vineyard also won two silver medals and a bronze medal with other entries.

Cherry Valley was started in 1980 and has been making fruit wines for the past 14 years from 100 percent whole Pennsylvania fruit, with no preservatives or additives. The flavor of the wine is from the fruit itself.

"Pennsylvania grows the best fruit for wine making," said Mary Sorrenti. "I have tried fruits from other locations, but Pennsylvania has the deepest colored and most fragrant fruit."

In its fifth year, Farm Show wine competition judges awarded 11 gold, 26 silver, and 81 bronze medals. Thirty wineries entered a total of 204 wines in the competition.

Other medal winners include:

• Arrowhead Wine Cellars, North East, Erie County — one gold, one bronze.

• Bashore and Stoudt Country Winery, Shartlesville, Berks County — one silver, three bronze.

• Blue Mountain Vineyards, New Tripoli, Lehigh County — four silver, three bronze.

• Calvaresi Winery, Bernville, Berks County two bronze.

• Clover Hill Vineyards and Winery, Breiningsville, Berks/Lehigh counties — three silver, five bronze.

• Conneaut Cellars Winery, Conneaut Lake, Crawford County — one silver, seven bronze.

SAVING WATERSHEDS

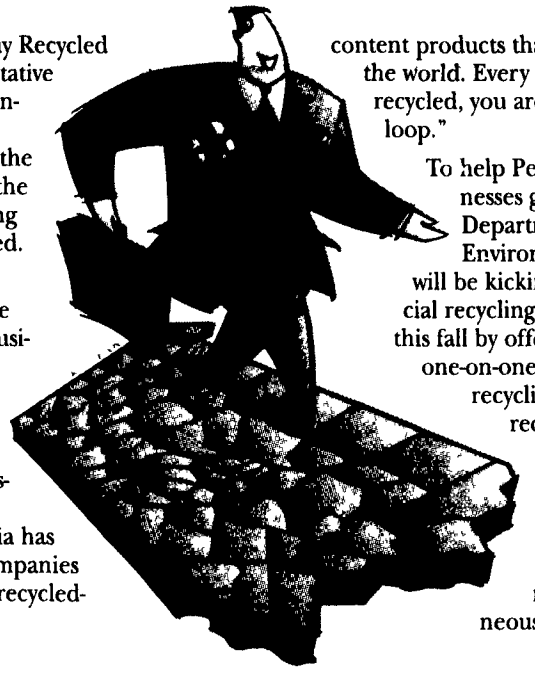
What exactly does the "Growing Greener" Program mean for Pennsylvanians? Ask Margaret Dunn. As president of the nonprofit Stream Restoration Inc. in Butler County, for the past eight years she has been at the center of a dozen projects to improve watersheds in the region.

Stream Restoration was one of the recipients during the first round of Growing Greener grants awarded in January 2000. The $815,000 awarded to Stream Restoration will go toward the construction of passive treatment systems to treat acid mine drainage discharges in Venango Township — yet another step in helping to heal the environment from decades of unregulated mining.

The increased funding made available by Growing Greener will allow Margaret's organization to restore two miles of stream in only nine months, not years, of construction.

Margaret's story is just one of several similar tales statewide. The number of environmental success stories will rise through the next five years as Pennsylvania continues to grow greener. See page 4

BUY RECYCLED BUSINESS REP ROLLS ACROSS PENNSYLVANIA



Pennsylvania's Buy Recycled Business Representative will be visiting counties across Pennsylvania over the next year sharing the benefits of recycling and buying recycled.

Today, in Pennsylvania, there are hundreds of businesses that offer recycled products—from office supplies to state-of-the-art plastic lumber picnic tables. Pennsylvania has more than 130 companies that manufacture recycled-content products that are sold all over the world. Every time you buy recycled, you are truly "closing the loop."

To help Pennsylvania businesses grow greener, the Department of Environmental Protection will be kicking off its commercial recycling education efforts this fall by offering customized, one-on-one assistance in recycling and buying recycled. Through recycling, buying recycled-content products and reporting your actions, your business can simultaneously improve its efficiency, support markets for recycled materials and enhance your local environment.

Pennsylvania's Buy Recycled Business Representative will visit your business, facility or office to help you conduct a waste audit and review your purchasing procedures to identify recycling and buying-recycled opportunities—customized for your business.

To learn more about how your business can be smart, responsible and profitable by recycling and buying recycled, call the Recycling Hotline at (800) 346-4242 and ask for your Pennsylvania Buy Recycled Business Representative. You can also visit www.GreenWorks.tv GreenWords "Buy Recycled."

"REAL" MEN RECYCLE MOTOR OIL

Oil doesn't wear out; it just gets dirty. Used oil can be re-refined into lubricating oil that is equal in quality to that made from crude oil. So if you're one of the many Pennsylvanians who changes your own oil, please recycle!

You can help protect the environment and save resources by taking your used oil to one of the many collection sites that have volunteered to accept used oil from the public. If all the used oil generated by do-it-yourselfers in Pennsylvania were recycled, it would save 103,000 barrels of oil every day. That's enough energy to power 17,100 homes annually.

Call the Recycling Hotline at (800) 346-4242 to identify your nearest used oil collection site.

FROM THE DESK OF THE GOVERNOR

We can all be very proud – PA. has become a national green leader, including the No. 1. curbside recycling program in the U.S.

But we can all do more to make PA greener – as you will see on these pages.

Enjoy your GreenWorks Gazette!

Use Your PURCHASING POWER

Take Control of Your Trash Bills

Are you paying for your neighbors' garbage removal? Traditionally, households have paid for waste collection through property taxes or a fixed fee, regardless of how much—or how little—trash they generate. When the cost of managing trash is hidden in taxes or charged at a flat rate, households that recycle and prevent waste end up subsidizing their neighbors' wastefulness A pay-as-you-throw program can balance out this inequality and create an economic incentive to recycle more and generate less waste.

Here's how it works. In a community with a pay-as-you-throw program, you are charged for trash collection based on the amount you throw away. Just like your electricity and gas bills, you pay a variable rate depending on the amount of service you use Some programs set a rate per bag, while others use a combination of a fixed subscription fee plus a variable fee based on service. Ultimately, the less you throw away, the less you pay.

A survey of county recycling coordinators completed in July 1999 revealed that 125 municipalities in Pennsylvania use pay-as-you-throw programs. Communities with programs in place have reported significant increases in recycling and reductions in waste—which means that fewer natural resources need to be extracted, and we save valuable landfill space.

Does your community have a pay-as-you-throw program? Learn more about how you can join the 125 municipalities in Pennsylvania already taking advantage of pay-as-you-throw services by visiting www.GreenWorks.tv GreenWords "Pay As You Throw."

...Buy RECYCLED!

Recycling helps preserve our environment. However, the only way to make recycling work in the long run is to buy and use recycled products and packaging. It's up to you to close the recycling loop.

These are some of the logos that can help you identify products and packaging made from recycled materials:

At the grocery store...

Check for environmental symbols on the labels of:

- Cereal, cookie and cracker packages
- Canned foods and beverages
- Detergent and cleaning supply containers
- Glass containers
- Shampoo and beauty products
- Household paper products

100% Recycled Paperboard

Look for other products made from recycled materials...

- Writing paper, note pads, greeting cards and other stationary supplies
- Carpeting
- Tools
- Plastic flower pots, trash cans, recycling bins and fencing
- Packing boxes
- Re-refined motor oil
- Retread tires
- Automotive batteries
- Insulation in ski jackets, gloves and sleeping bags made from recycled PET bottles

For a complete set of environmental shopping brochures, call the Pennsylvania Recycling Hotline at (800) 346-4242.

To find out what kinds of products are made from recycled materials right here in Pennsylvania, visit GreenWords "Buy Recycled."

...Buy REUSABLE ITEMS!

You can make a difference for the environment with your purchasing power:

- Buy refillable pens, flashlights, razors, lighters and cameras.
- Buy products in reusable containers such as glass jars and sturdy plastic dairy tubs.
- Buy and reuse cloth napkins, towels, rags and diapers.

Reusing items can:

- Save you money.
- Save landfill space.
- Save natural resources.
- Decrease the amount of pollution.

Other ways to reuse...

- Save plastic containers, coffee cans and glass jars for storage at work and home.
- Use the back side of writing paper before recycling it.
- Reuse envelopes and file folders.
- Share your magazines with others before recycling them.
- Have a yard sale before throwing away old items.
- Bring unwanted clothing and furniture to a thrift shop.
- Donate used toys, blankets, clothing and silverware to day care centers, local charities or community groups.

...STAY CLEAN AND GREEN!

Many of the household cleaning products you use every day contain chemicals like ammonia and chlorine, which can be hazardous to the environment and to human health when used or disposed of improperly. Read the labels of the cleaners you buy; know how to store them and how to dispose of them.

When using cleaners...

- Buy and use the amount needed for the task.
- Store cleaning products in their original container with the label intact.
- Do not pour cleaners (other than drain openers) down the drain.
- Do not pour leftover cleaners in the trash

Call your local recycling coordinator or the Pennsylvania Recycling Hotline at (800) 346-4242 for instructions on disposing of your household hazardous waste Check out a GreenWorks television segment on waste at www.GreenWorks.tv GreenWords "GWTV Waste."

What Do I Do with That Old Computer?

Advances in technology soon render all electronic equipment obsolete, especially computers. But there may be other options to discarding an obsolete computer:

Buy a good monitor - it can last 6-7 years or more.
Consider leasing a computer so you can trade it in at expiration of the lease.
Encourage your county recycling coordinator to consider starting an electronics collection program Or ship your equipment directly to a recycler.
Recycle spent rechargeable nickel-cadmium (NiCd) batteries through the many retail outlets that accept them.
Discard electronic equipment with normal trash as a last resort.

For questions on specific disposal issues, call the Recycling Hotline at (800) 346-4242 or visit www.GreenWorks.tv GreenWords "Electronic Discards "

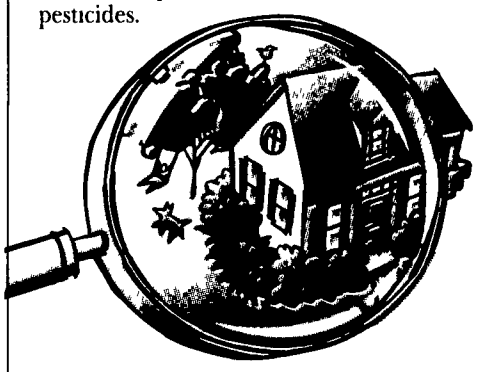
RISKS AT HOME

It's up to you to make sure your home is a safe and healthy place, and DEP can help. Pennsylvania participates in the national Home*A*Syst program that helps homeowners and renters evaluate their homes and properties for pollution risks from air, lead, water, products and pesticides.



With the Home*A*Syst program, we'll make it easy for you to ask the right questions and take the right steps to protect your children's health For more information, contact Fran Koch at the Bureau of Watershed Conservation at (717) 783-2289 or email Koch Frances@dep.state.pa.us GreenWords "Home*A*Syst"

RECYCLING AT SCHOOL

Setting up or improving an existing school recycling program can create a learning experience for all involved. When setting up a program, concentrate on areas that produce significant amounts of recyclables. Here are seven steps to school recycling:

1. Obtain support from the school administration, involve the custodial staff.
2. Identify local recycling services.
3. Estimate the recyclables generated in different locations of the school to determine the best recycling bin locations.
4. Make sure recycling bins are well marked.
5. Locate the bins close to trash containers in order to make the choice to recycle easy.
6. Work with your custodial staff to develop a collection system.
7. Educate and re-educate about your recycling program using the school newspaper, posters, web page, email, school handbook and student orientation.

For more help developing a recycling program to suit your school's needs, or for information on contacting your county recycling coordinator, use GreenWords "School Recycling."

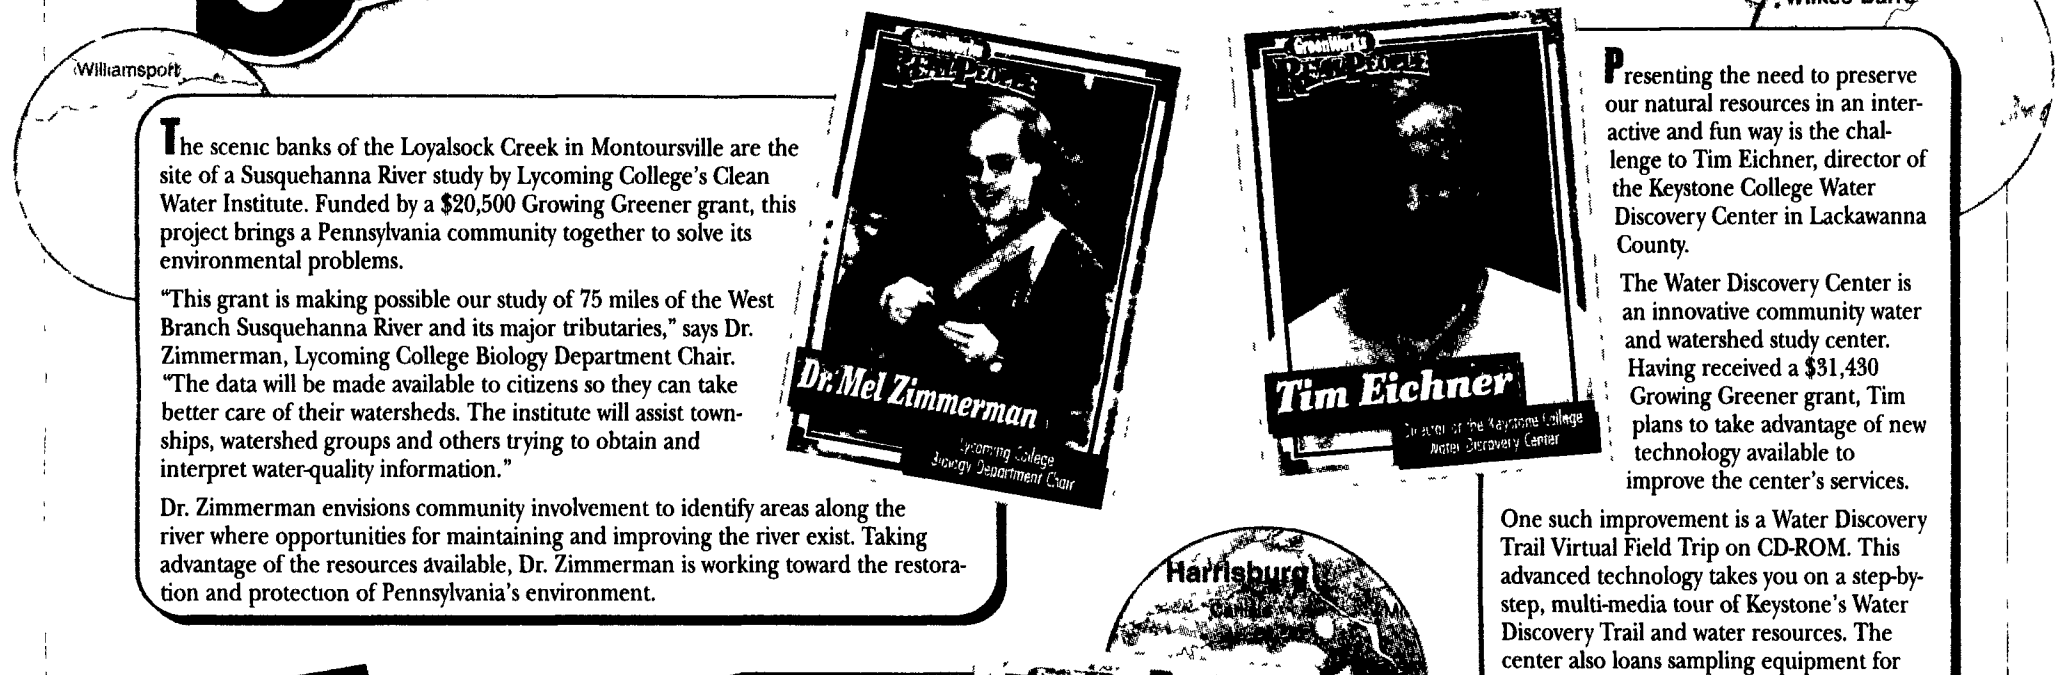
SAVING WATERSHEDS



The scenic banks of the Loyalsock Creek in Montoursville are the site of a Susquehanna River study by Lycoming College's Clean Water Institute. Funded by a $20,500 Growing Greener grant, this project brings a Pennsylvania community together to solve its environmental problems.

"This grant is making possible our study of 75 miles of the West Branch Susquehanna River and its major tributaries," says Dr. Zimmerman, Lycoming College Biology Department Chair. "The data will be made available to citizens so they can take better care of their watersheds. The institute will assist townships, watershed groups and others trying to obtain and interpret water-quality information."

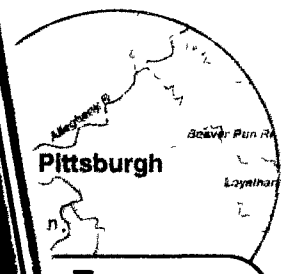
Dr. Zimmerman envisions community involvement to identify areas along the river where opportunities for maintaining and improving the river exist. Taking advantage of the resources available, Dr. Zimmerman is working toward the restoration and protection of Pennsylvania's environment.

Presenting the need to preserve our natural resources in an interactive and fun way is the challenge to Tim Eichner, director of the Keystone College Water Discovery Center in Lackawanna County.

The Water Discovery Center is an innovative community water and watershed study center. Having received a $31,430 Growing Greener grant, Tim plans to take advantage of new technology available to improve the center's services.

One such improvement is a Water Discovery Trail Virtual Field Trip on CD-ROM. This advanced technology takes you on a step-by-step, multi-media tour of Keystone's Water Discovery Trail and water resources. The center also loans sampling equipment for those interested in doing their own water quality testing.

Through the center, Growing Greener and people like Tim give the public the tools to take action on water-related issues and watershed activities.



The Stream Team: Pennsylvania's version of an environmental dream team.

Sixty community volunteers and 120 students from six schools make up the Stream Team that has monitored 100 stream sites along the Kiski-Conemaugh River Basin.

With Tom Grote coaching, the Stream Team will be expanding its monitoring program throughout the basin with a $5,675 Growing Greener grant. The Stream Team will locate sites not currently being monitored, purchase monitoring equipment and begin a public education campaign.

"By adding more monitoring sites, the Stream Team can better plan remediation projects throughout the river basin and continue to improve water quality," says Tom, the project coordinator of the Kiski Basin and Environs Initiative.
To Growing Greener, the Stream Team will always be winners.

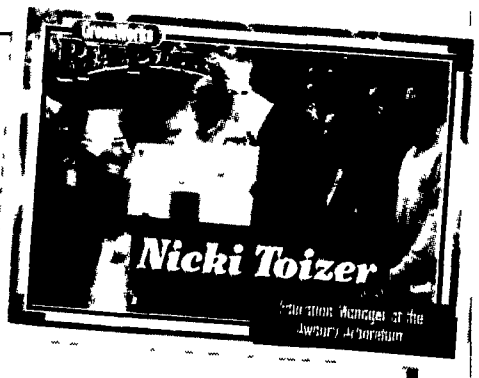
In protecting Pennsylvania's lush resources, we ensure a cleaner and greener environment for generations to come. Twelve-year-old Kimberly Mann proves that you are never too young to start, and 68-year-old Arthur Sconing proves that you are never old enough to stop.

"I am sure that you don't want the next generation to live in a world that has no real outdoors. I know I don't," says Kimberly.

Now, she and her schoolmates from Allen Middle School will have the opportunity to make a difference. So will Arthur Sconing, a member of the Capital Region Senior Environment Corps.

Through a $19,000 Growing Greener grant, Lower Allen Township, Cumberland County, formed The Yellow Breeches Watershed Alliance to perform a comprehensive assessment of that watershed. Volunteers like Kimberly and Arthur will take an active role identifying priority water quality projects.

"We need programs like Gov. Ridge's 'Growing Greener' to help our work and create alliances," says Sconing. Following their lead, we can ensure that Pennsylvania grows greener for years to come.



Imagine a place with towering trees, beautiful meadows, lush wetlands, and flourishing gardens. Certainly a place like this could only exist in the far reaches of the imagination . . . or Pennsylvania. The Awbury Arboretum in Germantown reminds visitors just how precious our environment can be.

The 55-acre urban arboretum serves the community not only as a beautiful vista, but also as an outdoor classroom. Nicki Toizer gets to be the teacher.

She is the education manager for the Awbury Arboretum Association, offering environmental education to more than 6,000 children and families a year. Growing Greener has taken the opportunity to aid their efforts with a $13,000 grant.

With Growing Greener funding, Nicki and the association are able to implement a new watershed-protection education initiative. This project will greatly increase the public's awareness of the Frankford-Tacony Watershed, a heavily urbanized watershed that flows through some of Philadelphia's most deprived neighborhoods.

WHAT IS A WATERSHED?

A watershed is a geographic area that contains a common outlet, such as a stream, river, lake or wetland, into which water drains. The Susquehanna River Basin, part of the Chesapeake Bay watershed, is one of America's most important watershed areas. Its average flow is 19 million gallons of water per minute. In Pennsylvania, three million people live and work in the Susquehanna River Basin. In order to protect the water quality in this natural neighborhood, the citizens of Pennsylvania must commit to long-term goals to clean up the Bay. For information about protecting the basin, visit www.GreenWorks.tv GreenWords "Susquehanna River."

Watershed Weekly – Webcast

Now it's easier than ever to learn how you can protect your watershed, get information about training and funding sources and even brag a little about your own watershed successes through a newsletter and webcast called Watershed Weekly.

The Pennsylvania Organization for Watersheds and Rivers (POWR) and the Environmental Fund for Pennsylvania (the GreenWorks people) have teamed up to create a unique new resource for anyone interested in watershed protection. Each week Watershed Weekly newsletter highlights successful watershed protection efforts around the state in a "Weekly Splash" section, provides a calendar of workshops and other events and spotlights ideas and suggestions on citizen water monitoring to help you solve problems in your watershed.

Watershed Weekly will feature the Internet's first webcast devoted to watershed issues where you can see and hear people just like you talking about the steps they've taken to protect their watershed.

The key to Watershed Weekly is real stories about real people solving watershed problems through education, building partnerships and just plain hard work.

Read Watershed Weekly online at www.WatershedWeekly.org, or you can have it emailed to you by signing up online at the website.

HOW TO START A WATERSHED GROUP

Everyone lives in a watershed but different people will have different levels of interest in their watershed. Some will be interested in a leadership role or active involvement in a watershed association. Others will be less intensely involved but still interested in learning about the watershed. Many will take no active role.

Interest also will vary from place to place, so the following list merely suggests examples of people and organizations that might be interested in participating at some level. You can probably think of others in your area:

- Landowners
- Drinking water suppliers
- Businesses and industries
- Farmers and farm organizations
- Citizen monitoring groups
- Environmental, conservation and sporting groups
- Canoeing, hiking or bicycling clubs
- Land conservancies
- Heritage groups, historical societies
- Service organizations, community or youth groups
- Schools, colleges and universities
- Chambers of commerce, tourism councils
- Environmental Advisory Councils
- Sewer and water authorities
- Parks and recreation boards
- County conservation districts
- Regional planning commissions

TOP TIPS FOR WATERSHED ORGANIZATIONS

Watershed organizations can be very effective in developing and carrying out local solutions to existing water-related problems and in preventing future problems. Organizing one can also be a daunting task! This advice, gathered from various successful watershed groups, might help:

1. Build and maintain relationships. Your efforts will be more successful if you involve other groups and work toward a shared vision.
2. Set clear goals that are easy to explain. It will be easier to get support if people understand what you are trying to do and how it relates to them.
3. Make sure everyone involved knows the basics.
4. Demonstrate results early. A successful project, even a small one, will get people excited and interested.
5. Give project participants good publicity, especially when a local business has allowed its employees to participate on work time.
6. Look for diverse funding sources.
7. Look for other kinds of support. Businesses and local governments may be able to provide services or materials more readily than cash.
8. Enlist the support of your local government officials.
9. Contact a watershed specialist at your local DEP Regional Office or County Conservation District.

Above all, be creative. Groups can come up with surprising and innovative ways to get materials, services, volunteer workers, money and more when they put their minds to it.

HOT IDEAS! COOL TIPS! FOR HOUSE & HOME

Replace all light fixtures that operate four or more hours a day with ones that use fluorescent bulbs to save money and energy. Use lumens—the amount of light produced—to compare lights. For example, a 23-watt fluorescent bulb produces about the same number of lumens as a 100-watt incandescent. Your investment will generally pay for itself in a couple of years.

"R" Rated Advice

Appropriate insulation for your climate, based on R-Ratings, can increase your comfort and reduce your heating and cooling costs up to 30%. Start with attic insulation followed by exterior and basement walls, floors and crawl spaces.

R

Do you need help heating your home this winter?

The Low-Income Home Energy Assistance Program (LIHEAP) is available to those who meet income eligibility requirements.
To assist Pennsylvanians with preparing for winter weather, Gov. Tom Ridge opened the program a week early this year, and increased the income-eligibility limits and the cash and crisis benefits.

For more information about LIHEAP call the state Department of Public Welfare at (800) 692-7462.

Food for Thought

Since the kitchen uses a big chunk of your home energy budget—the refrigerator alone accounts for about 15% of the total home electricity bill or about 10% of the average home energy bill—try these energy efficient techniques:

SAVE ENERGY SAVER | NO EXPIRATION DATE
• Buy a refrigerator that is the right size for your needs to avoid wasting energy cooling nothing. SAVE

SAVE ENERGY SAVER | NO EXPIRATION DATE
• Use a microwave or toaster oven to cook small portions and a conventional oven or stove-top for larger items. SAVE

SAVE ENERGY SAVER | NO EXPIRATION DATE
• A watched pot will indeed boil – eventually–but putting a lid on it reduces cooking time and energy use. SAVE

It's a Breeze

The average home has enough leaks around its windows and doors to equal one open 3 foot by 3 foot window! Wow what a draft this would let in! So check your roof, walls, floors, windows and doors. If you deal with air leaks first, you'll get the maximum savings from your heating and cooling systems.

Pane Management

If you're shopping for new windows, glass doors or skylights, look for the Energy Star label. Today's high-efficiency windows are three to four times more energy efficient than windows commonly installed ten years ago. Special low-e (emissivity) or spectrally-selective (solar control) coatings greatly reduce the amount of heat that flows through glass so there isn't as much heat lost in winter or gained in summer.

Coming Clean

In the market for new appliances? Look for these efficient, energy-saving features:

Dishwashers that turn off the heating element and circulate air from outside the washer for drying.

Clothes dryers that have moisture sensors that turn off the unit when the clothes are dry.

Not so Crazy Eights

7 Plant trees to shelter your home from the elements.

7 Use computer Energy Star sleep feature and turn off office and other equipment when not in use for some time.
